Chao Pei Tsui light is a flashing white light every half minute, elevated 94 feet above the sea, and should be visible in clear weather from a distance of 15 miles, except where obscured by the land.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric, or by lenses, of the fourth order.

NEW ZEALAND.

SOUTH ISLAND—EAST COAST.

Intended alterations in lights—Timaru harbour.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 295 of 1891) that on 1st November 1891 the following alterations will be made in the lights of Timaru harbour, east coast of South island, New Zealand :—

(1) Timaru principal light will be a fixed white light, with a sector of green light visible through an arc of 22° or between the bearings of S.S.W. and South. It will be elevated 85 feet above the sea, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 14 miles.

The illuminating apparatus will be dioptric, or by lenses, of the fifth order.

The light-house will be as heretofore, 30 feet in height, constructed of wood, and painted white.

Position ; lat. 44° 23½′ S., long. 171° 18½′ E.

(2) The light exhibited from the end of Timaru eastern breakwater will be a red light, visible seaward between the bearings of W.N.W. through West and S.E.; it will be elevated 33 feet above high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 5 miles.

(3) The light shown from the end of Timaru north mole will be a green light, visible seaward between the bearings of W.N.W. through West and S.E.; it will be elevated 16 feet above high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of one mile

NOTE.—Mariners are cautioned, that after these alterations have been carried out, on approaching Timaru, and when anchoring outside the harbour, they should keep the white light in sight. If compelled to enter the harbour, the white light must be brought to bear S.W., and be kept on that bearing until the entrance lights are seen; after which a vessel may stand to the westward to open those lights, but not so far as to enter the sector of green light, shown from the principal light-house, until within a quarter of a mile of the eastern breakwater.

The sector of green light shows over the Lyttelton wreck, and is intended as a warning to keep clear of that wreck, and of the Ninety miles beach.

Except in vessels of small tonnage, and those the masters of which are well acquainted with the harbour, the attempt to enter the harbour at night should not be made without a pilot. This warning is also rendered necessary by the fact that a vessel moored at the outer buoy is in the fairway.

REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE FIRE BRIGADE IN THE TOWN AND SUBURBS OF CALCUTTA AND IN HOWRAH DURING THE YEAR 1890-91.

No. 4879, dated Calcutta, the 24th July 1891.

From—J. LAMBERT, ESQ., C.I.E., Commissioner of Police, Calcutta,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit, under section 30 of Act IV (B.C.) of 1883, the following report on the working of the Fire Brigade in the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta and in Howrah during the year 1890-91.

2. The Brigade was in attendance at 33 fires during the year, 8 in the Town, 18 in the Suburbs and 7 in Howrah, as compared with 36 fires in the preceding year, and the value of property destroyed was Rs. 73,434 against Rs. 4,59,800. The fires were less serious than in the previous year; and in the Town, the only fire which calls for special notice broke out on Strand Road on the 7th June 1890, when portion of a large two-storied brick-built godown containing tar, turpentine, &c., to the value of Rs. 40,000 was destroyed.

In the Suburbs the only fire of any consequence occurred in the compound of the Military Clothing Agency in Alipore, in which property of the value of Rs. 5,000 was burnt. In another small fire, which occurred in the Belliaghatta section on the 20th April 1890, three children were badly burnt, and succumbed to their injuries.

The fires in Howrah were confined to thatched and tiled huts, and call for no special remarks.

3. A memorandum of the fires, and also a statement of the receipts and expenditure of the Brigade, are enclosed. It will be seen that the sum of Rs. 657 has been expended in excess of the budget grant. This expenditure was incurred in the purchase of two new hose carts for Rs. 400, at Rs. 200 each, and in painting and making alterations to the hose cart according to new design of Messrs. Merryweather and Sons at a cost of Rs. 250-12, the balance, Rs. 6-4, is included in the item of Rs. 188, charged for the purchase, locally, of 100 feet of sample hose, which has been found to work better than rubber-lined hose.

4. During the year under review seven persons were prosecuted in the Suburbs of Calcutta under the Indian Explosives Act, IV of 1884, for the manufacture, possession, and sale of fireworks, and they were all convicted. There were no prosecutions in the Town of Calcutta.

5. No licenses for the sale of fireworks was withdrawn during the year.

Explanation.—..... indicate that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 4th August 1891.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, THE 1st OF AUGUST 1891.

DURING a considerable part of the previous week a very feeble whirl had existed over South-West Bengal and the neighbouring parts of the Bay, but which till Saturday, the 25th, had not intensified in any way. On that day, however, a very rapid fall of pressure had taken place at Saugor Island and Calcutta, and a very distinct but small cyclonic storm was formed with its centre over the Sunderbuns to the east of Saugor Island. Wind velocities rapidly increased in connection with the storm, and a gale of wind commenced to blow at the head of the Bay. Immediately after its formation the small storm began to advance in a north-westerly direction, and on the morning of the 26th the storm was in the west of Chutia Nagpur; but as there are no meteorological observatories over that area, the precise position of its centre is doubtful On the morning of the 26th, as the storm centre was well inland, the "cautionary" storm signal which had been hoisted in the Hooghly on the 25th was hauled down, but on the 26th and partly on the 27th a gale of wind continued to blow at the head of the Bay. On the 27th the centre of the storm was near Jubbulpore and Sutna, on the 28th it was near Jhansi, on the 29th it was to the west of Ajmere, and on the 30th the centre was apparently near Bikanir, but the storm was decidedly more feeble and was evidently filling up. During the whole of its existence the storm was accompanied by a strong cyclonic circulation of winds, and in its rear a heavy wave of moisture-laden monsoon winds spread over the whole of Northern India, and brought general rainfall to practically the whole of the Punjab and other parts of Northern India which had been up to that time almost rainless during the present monsoon.

During the passage of the small storm through the south-western districts of Bengal very heavy rain was received, and with the wave of monsoon winds which followed it, conditions remained favourable for rainfall up till the 30th, and from the 26th to the 30th rainfall was fairly general and of moderate amount in all districts The alterations of meteorological conditions from day to day in Bengal during this period do not call for any detailed remark. From the 29th, however, the conditions in the Bay began to alter. A decidedly rapid fall of pressure took place at the central stations in the east of the Bay, the fall being largest (0·103″) at Diamond Island; wind also became strongly westerly in Burma and east-south-easterly at Akyab, pointing to the possible commencement of a feeble cyclonic circulation of winds, but the winds were very light. On the 30th a further rapid fall of pressure took place at the eastern stations, and winds again showed a feeble tendency to cyclonic circulation over the east of the Bay, though winds were still light, and up to this date probably no storm had formed. On the 31st pressure continued to fall generally, winds again showed rather cyclonic directions, but the circulation was decidedly incomplete, though strong winds commenced to blow at Diamond Island and the Burma stations generally. The land observations on this day indicated that a distinct barometric depression had formed over the east of the Bay, but they did not show any very definite centre to this depression. It is probable, however, that a distinct cyclonic storm had formed to the north-west of Diamond Island on the 31st, but the land observations certainly did not show that it was of any great strength. On the 1st of August pressure continued to fall at Akyab and in the north of the Bay, and there was a rapid rise in Burma. The cyclonic circulation of winds became more complete, and strong winds continued to blow in Burma. A distinct cyclonic storm therefore appeared to exist on this day to the west of Akyab in perhaps about latitude 19° to 20° N. and longitude 90° to 91° E.

The storm had apparently therefore moved in a north-north-westerly direction in the twenty-four hours from the 31st to the 1st. Storm signals were accordingly hoisted on the 1st in the Hooghly and at Chittagong, indicating the existence of the storm in the north of the Bay and its probable advance in a north-westerly direction. The storm afterwards on the 2nd advanced in a north-westerly direction to the Sunderbuns, but there it changed its path and afterwards from the 2nd to the 3rd advanced due west past Saugor Island into Orissa. The history of this storm, however, subsequent to the 1st belongs to the meteorology of the following week.

From the 30th, during the formation of the storm in the Bay, winds in the west and centre of Bengal began to show indraught towards the sea area, and became therefore northerly and north-westerly. Rainfall at once commenced to decrease in amount and area, a large part of the province became practically rainless, and elsewhere rain was usually light and local. For the 31st and 1st August, therefore, little or no rain was reported in the province.

Pressure.—On the 26th pressure fell generally and rather rapidly with the advance of the cyclonic storm over the province, but for the next two or three days a brisk rise was experienced, and on the 29th pressure became above the normal generally by about a tenth of an inch. From the 30th a fall set in which continued up till the close of the week, when pressure had become below the normal by amounts which ranged from 0·03″ at the western stations to 0·1″ at the extreme eastern stations. These variations have more or less neutralized each other, and the mean pressure for the week at the majority of stations has not been very far removed from the normal. In most cases slight excess pressures of about 0·01″ or 0·02″ have been registered, not only throughout the province of Bengal, but also in Assam.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature during the week have to a great extent followed the variations in the heaviness of the rainfall; but on the whole they have been of very slight practical importance. For the whole province the mean temperature for the week has only varied from the normal by a defect of less than a tenth of a degree; but while South Behar has shown an excess of rather more than a degree, South-West Bengal and Chutia Nagpur have shown defects of rather more than half a degree. In the other divisions the temperatures have been almost normal. In Assam an excess temperature of 0·8° has been registered.

Rainfall.—As stated previously, rainfall was fairly general for the first four or five days and to a considerable extent absent on the last two days of the week. During the passage of the small cyclonic storm through the south-west of the province falls of two and-a-half inches and upwards in a single day were reported from Bhuddruck, Contai, Khatra, Gungajalghati, and Morarai. The heavy falls then extended, and on the 27th the following were some of the amounts recorded :—Cox's Bazar 7·32 inches, Darjeeling 4·18 inches, and Kalimpong 5·50 inches, while falls in excess of two and three inches were numerous. On the 28th again heavy rainfall was recorded, Satkanya receiving 5·20 inches, Chittagong 5·02 inches, Lalgola 4·05 inches, and Beauleah 3·95 inches, and again falls in excess of two inches were numerous. On the 29th the falls began to fall off in amount except at Sherpore (Mymensingh), where 11·02 inches fell, though on the 30th again falls in excess of three inches were recorded at Chas, Raghunathpur, Jamtara, Banka, Gogri, Monghyr, Beauleah (5·29 inches), Durgapore, Kandi, Serampore, Baraset, and Barrackpore Falls on the 31st and 1st August were generally light. For the whole week an average fall of four and-a-third inches has been received in East Bengal and of about two and-a-half to three and-a-half inches in all other divisions except Orissa, where an average fall of only one and-a-half inches is reported. Compared with the normal, the fall in South-West Bengal has been in slight excess, and in East and North Bengal and Behar in slight defect. In Chutia Nagpur the defect is large, and equals about a fourth of the usual fall, and in Orissa the defect is even larger and equals nearly one-half of the normal amount. The number of rainy days in the week has also been about equal to the normal except in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur, where they equal about three-fourths the usual number.

In the smaller districts the following have received falls largely in defect of the normal :—All districts in Orissa, Midnapore, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Dacca, Comilla, Pubna, Julpigoree, Mymensingh, Shahabad, Gya, and Chybassa. Rather large excess falls, on the other hand, have been received in Moorshedabad, Chittagong, Backergunge, Rajshahye, Durbhunga, and Sonthal Pergunnahs.

In Assam during the week Silchar has received 3·83 inches, Sibsagar 1·08 inches, and Dhubri 0·84 inch of rain.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 1st of August 1891 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

MEMORANDUM.

Report on the Monthly Statistics of Deaths registered in forty-five districts of Bengal for the month of May 1891.

THE total deaths registered in forty-five districts of Bengal during the month of May 1891 numbered 125,975, being less than those in the preceding month by 36,005, but greater than those of the corresponding month of the preceding year and the average of the corresponding months of the previous five years (1886—90) by 1,518 and 6,873, respectively, representing an annual death-rate of 22·92 per 1,000 of the aggregate population of those districts, which is 65,859,534. The death-rate of May 1891 is ·36 higher than the mean rate of the corresponding months of the past five years 1886—90, and is also higher than the rate of the corresponding period of any of the past five years except 1887, vide the figures below:—

	May 1886.	May 1887.	May 1888.	May 1889.	May 1890.	Monthly average of five years 1886—90.	May 1891.

Ratio per mille per annum	18 24	25·44	21·00	20 88	22·50	22 50	22·92

The mortality-rate during May 1891, as will be seen from the following table, is less than that during the past months of the year:—

Months.	Number of deaths.	Ratio per mille.
January 1891	143,492	26·04

May ,, ...	125,975	22 92

The following table shows the death-rates among the different sexes and the five principal classes of the community which comprise the population of the Bengal Province. As usual, on the whole the registered results were greater among the male than among the female population. 118 males died for every 100 females, calculated on the proportion such mortality bears to the total male and female population. Proportionally to population Mahomedans died in greater numbers than either the Hindus, Christians, or other classes, and the Buddhists suffered the least:—

Jalpaiguri attained the highest death-rate during the month under notice (78·1 per mille per annum) and the lowest death-rate was recorded in Chumparun (12·36). The high death-rate in Jalpaiguri was due to an excessive mortality from cholera, more than half of the total deaths having occurred from that disease. Eliminating Jalpaiguri, Purneah stands next on the list with a high death-rate (65·52), followed by Rungpore (48 72) and Darjeeling (47·28). It will be seen from the statement appended to this memorandum that the death-rates in six districts ranged between 30·96 and 25·20, in twelve they were between 24·84 and 20·28, and in the remaining twenty-three below 20 per mille per annum. Registration of deaths cannot be said to be accurate in those districts which return death-rates below 20 per mille per annum.

The total mortality during the month under review from the several registered death-causes is compared in the following table with the mortality from those causes in the corresponding month of 1890 and the average of the previous five years 1886—90 :—

	Ratio per mille during—
	May 1891.	May 1890.	Monthly average of five years 1886-90.
Cholera	4·80	2·88	3·36
Small-pox	·24	·24	·12
Fever	14·04	15·84	14·16
Dysentery and diarrhœa	·48	·48	·60
Injury	·36	·36	·36
Other causes	2·64	2·52	2·52

The most noticeable points in connection with the above table are that the death-rate of May 1891 under the head Cholera is higher than in the two past periods with which it is compared, but as compared with May 1890 there is a decrease in the mortality of May 1891 under the head Fever.

The mortality from Cholera amounted to 26,810 (ratio 4·80 per mille per annum), against 44,769 (ratio 8·04) in the month before. All the districts suffered, but Purneah the most with a death-rate of 43·20 per mille per annum, then Jalpaiguri (41·40), Rungpore (25·68), Bhagulpore (10·68), Nuddea (7·80), Mymensing (5·40), Durbhunga (5·28), Dinajpur and Maldah (5·04) each, Shahabad (4·68), Saran (4·20), Pubna (4·08), Darjiling (3·84), Backerganj (3·48), Monghyr (3·24), Rajshahye (3·), Bogra 2·76), and Dacca, Faridpur, and Sonthal Pergunnahs (2·04) each.

The total deaths from small-pox numbered 1,967 (ratio ·24 per mille per annum), against 1,926 (ratio ·24) in the previous month. Midnapore sufferered the most with a death-rate of 3·12 per 1,000 of population per annum, next Cuttack (1·68), then Lohardugga (1·20). Six districts were absolutely free from this disease.

Fever caused 77,357 deaths (ratio 14·04 per 1,000 per annum) against 92,474 (ratio 16·80) in the preceding month, and dysentery and diarrhœa proved fatal in 2,727 instances (ratio ·48 per mille per annum) against 3,078 (ratio ·48) in the previous month. All the districts returned deaths from both heads; but the greatest mortality-rates from fever were recorded in Jalpaiguri (34·80), Darjeeling (30·96), Dinajpur (24·24), Noakhali (22·20), Purneah (21·60), and Rungpore (20·64). Darjeeling returned the highest death-rate from dysentery and diarrhœa (7·68), followed by Howrah (3·) and Balasore (2·52).

Injury caused 2,570 deaths (ratio ·36 per mille per annum), against 1,930 (ratio ·24) in the previous month, and the mortality from all other causes not specified amounted to 14,544 (ratio 2·64 per mille per annum), against 17,803 (ratio 3·24). Poori returned the highest death-rate from the unspecified diseases coming under the head "All other causes," viz., 11·40 per mille per annum.

With regard to Age, infants (under one year) as usual perished in the largest numbers, 141·84 per 1,000 of population per annum; next came old persons (60 years and upwards) with a death-rate of 47·88 per 1,000. The lowest death-rate occurred between the ages of 10 and under 15 years, viz. 12·36 per 1,000 per annum.

Detailed information regarding the mortuary statistics of the forty-five districts of Bengal during the month under review will be found in the statement appended.

NEW ZEALAND.

SOUTH ISLAND—EAST COAST.

Intended alterations in lights—Timaru harbour.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 295 of 1891) that on 1st November 1891 the following alterations will be made in the lights of Timaru harbour, east coast of South island, New Zealand:—

(1) Timaru principal light will be a fixed white light, with a sector of green light visible through an arc of 22° or between the bearings of S.S.W. and South. It will be elevated 85 feet above the sea, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 14 miles.

The illuminating apparatus will be dioptric, or by lenses, of the fifth order.

The light-house will be as heretofore, 30 feet in height, constructed of wood, and painted white.

Position; lat. 44° 23½′ S., long. 171° 18½′ E.

(2) The light exhibited from the end of Timaru eastern breakwater will be a red light, visible seaward between the bearings of W.N.W. through West and S.E.; it will be elevated 33 feet above high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 5 miles.

(3) The light shown from the end of Timaru north mole will be a green light, visible seaward between the bearings of W.N.W. through West and S.E.; it will be elevated 16 feet above high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of one mile.

NOTE.—Mariners are cautioned, that after these alterations have been carried out, on approaching Timaru, and when anchoring outside the harbour, they should keep the white light in sight. If compelled to enter the harbour, the white light must be brought to bear S.W., and be kept on that bearing until the entrance lights are seen; after which a vessel may stand to the westward to open those lights, but not so far as to enter the sector of green light, shown from the principal light-house, until within a quarter of a mile of the eastern breakwater.

The sector of green light shows over the Lyttelton wreck, and is intended as a warning to keep clear of that wreck, and of the Ninety miles beach.

Except in vessels of small tonnage, and those the masters of which are well acquainted with the harbour, the attempt to enter the harbour at night should not be made without a pilot. This warning is also rendered necessary by the fact that a vessel moored at the outer buoy is in the fairway.

ANNUAL RETURNS ON CHARITABLE DISPENSARIES IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1890.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—MEDICAL.

Calcutta, the 7th August 1891.

RESOLUTION No. 1681.

READ—

The Annual Returns on the Charitable Dispensaries in Bengal for the year 1890.

Read also—

The Triennial Report on the Charitable Dispensaries in Bengal for the years 1887 to 1889, and the Resolution recorded upon it.

The statistics of the past year show an increase in the number of dispensaries as well as of patients treated in them. The total number of dispensaries at the close of the year was 265 against 255 in 1889, the increase being chiefly in class II—institutions managed by local bodies. Several institutions which are actually managed by local bodies are still included in class IIIB as institutions supported by subscriptions or endowments, but receiving aid from Government or local funds. Dr. Hilson drew attention to these in paragraph 12 of the last triennial report on dispensaries, and suggested that they should be transferred to local bodies. Specific proposals under this head were called for in the Resolution of 6th October 1890, reviewing the report, but the subject appears to have been lost sight of.

The total number of indoor and outdoor patients treated rose from 28,981 and 1,179,843 in 1889 to 29,660 and 1,239,850 respectively in 1890. In spite of this increase in the total number of indoor patients, the daily average fell from 1,292·305 to 1,287·626. The average daily attendance of out-patients rose from 8,440·453 to 8,841·17. The following dispensaries show a satisfactory increase in the number of indoor patients:—Gya, 595; Midnapore, 95; Chuprah, 86; Pooree, 74; Deoghur, 65; Comilla, 46; while a falling off is observed at Cuttack of 192, North Suburban Hospital 133, Purulia 92, and Motiharee 82.

Taking indoor and outdoor patients together, and comparing the Bengal statistics for 1890 with the returns of the North-Western Provinces and Assam for 1889, the last year for which figures are available, it appears that in Bengal only 17·9 per thousand of the population resorted to the dispensaries for treatment, while the proportion treated in the North-Western Provinces was 56·2 and in Assam 47·9. In his notes upon statement II, showing the number of indoor and outdoor patients, the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals presents this fact in a somewhat different form, and suggests that the smaller attendance at dispensaries may be due to the inaccessibility of many dispensaries during the rains, to the number of private practitioners at work among the people, to the operation of rule 37 of the Dispensary Manual, which authorises the Medical Officer to exercise his discretion in refusing to supply medicines free of charge in ordinary cases where the applicant is not poor, and to the smaller amount of practical surgery. Of these various causes it seems probable that the number of private practitioners and the preference of the people in all but surgical cases for the methods of the kabiraj and the hakim are really those which contribute most largely to the result; but the question is obscure and difficult, and no confident opinion can be expressed until the surgical standard of Bengal dispensaries has been raised, and more inducement has been offered to the people to come in for treatment. Dr. Hilson is mistaken in saying that in 1889 the number of indoor patients treated in Bengal exceeded the number for the North-Western Provinces. The actual figures for that year were in Bengal 28,981, and in the North-Western Provinces 51,705.

2. There was a considerable increase in the number of patients treated for malarial fever, and the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals infers from this that the year was more unhealthy than usual, an inference which is borne out by the increased mortality from fever and other diseases shown in the Annual Report of the Sanitary Commissioner. The proportion of persons suffering from fever to the total number treated in the year 1889 is incorrectly shown in the notes on statement No. III as 10·97, the correct figure being 19·2. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction a considerable increase in the attendance of patients suffering from eye-diseases. On the other hand, the number of small-pox patients treated in the dispensaries was extraordinarily small. It appears from the Sanitary Commissioner's report that there were 12,619 deaths from small-pox in the province, but the attendance in hospitals and dispensaries for this disease was only 103; and the Lieutenant-Governor having recently visited Chittagong during an outbreak of small-pox observed that very few cases were brought for treatment to the special small-pox hospital attached to the dispensary at that station. In most cases a separate ward for the treatment of infectious diseases is provided, but it must be admitted that the aspect of these wards is not inviting.

3. The total number of major operations increased from 5,174 to 6,344. Adding to this number 235 major operation cases remaining under treatment at the close of the previous year, 5,244 cases were cured and 588 cases were relieved, while only 116 cases terminated fatally. The number of cataract cases shows a remarkable increase, from 896 to 1,686, the percentage of recovery in these cases being 80·6 as compared with 68·89 in 1889. The Inspector-General draws attention to the excellent work done at Gya by Surgeon-Major R. D. Murray, who during nine months of the year performed 838 operations, of which 571 were for cataract. In consequence of Dr. Murray's activity in practical surgery the number of indoor patients rose from 718 to 1,313, and of outdoor patients from 9,642 to 11,312, showing that the people are ready enough to take advantage of European surgical treatment when it is brought within their reach. Dr. ffrench-Mullen has also treated a large number of cataract cases at Rampore

Boalia. Notwithstanding this increase in the number of major operations, the statistics under this head for Bengal still compare unfavourably with the results obtained in the North-Western Provinces, where 17,152 major operations were performed in 1889, the last year for which returns have been issued.

4. The following table compares the different classes of patients treated during the year :—

Total treated during the year.					Class.					Daily attendance.
					a	b	c	d	e	Average number.				Ratio per cent. of—

1890	759,276	194,247	316,987	1,269,510	670	3,103	394,497	847,120	23,920	6,033·805	1,594·59	2,500·471	10,128·786	59·57	15 74	24·69	100

The proportion of females and children treated is very small—a fact attributed by the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals to the insufficient arrangements at most of the dispensaries for separate treatment of the male and female patients. He will be requested, after making due enquiry to report what arrangements for the separate accommodation he would recommend. The Lieutenant-Governor conceives that more seclusion is required for female patients and for female relations attending on the sick, but proposals for the provision of such conveniences must be drawn up with strict reference to economy.

5. The total income of the dispensaries in Bengal increased from Rs. 4,73,332-15-1 to Rs. 5,07,583-2-11, and the total expenditure, including investments, from Rs. 4,37,095-3-9 to Rs. 4,74,853-15-6. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction that the amount of subscriptions paid by native gentlemen has increased from Rs. 1,19,623 in 1889 to the creditable total of Rs. 1,45,981 in 1890. The percentage of income contributed by Government was remarkably small, being only 5·31, while in the North-Western Provinces and Assam in the year 1889 it was 51·95 and 31·96 respectively. The contribution of municipalities was 33·68 per cent. of total income as compared with 8·55 and 4·70, the figures for the North-Western Provinces and Assam respectively for 1889. The average cost of the daily diet of each patient during 1890 was 1 anna and 7·3 pies, and in 1889 it was 1 anna 7 pies, against 8 pies in the North-Western Provinces and 2 annas 4 pies in Assam. The corresponding figure for jails is only 1 anna, but the difference is sufficiently accounted for by the greater care necessary in the dieting of invalids.

Order.—Ordered that a copy of the Resolution, together with a copy of the report, be submitted to the Government of India, Home Department, for information.

Ordered also that a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, and to all Commissioners of Divisions for information, and that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT ON EMIGRATION FROM THE PORT OF CALCUTTA TO THE BRITISH AND FOREIGN COLONIES FOR THE YEAR 1890.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT—COLONIAL EMIGRATION.

Calcutta, the 7th August 1891.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Annual Report on Emigration from the Port of Calcutta to the British and Foreign Colonies for the year 1890.

Administrative measures.

The only administrative change of any importance was the introduction by the Government of India of a new set of rules governing the provision of artificial ventilators on board of emigrant vessels. The effect of the new rules is to insist on an artificial ventilator which will be capable of supplying the between-decks with 500 cubic feet of air per adult per hour, and also of being worked either by steam or by hand. The insufficiency of the artificial ventilators with which some of the ships had been previously fitted had been strongly exemplified by the voyage of the Elbe in the year 1889 to the Dutch colony of Surinam. The vessel was fitted with a Thiers' ventilator, an apparatus dependent for its working on conditions of weather and sea, which had been found on previous voyages to have worked unsatisfactorily. The voyage on this occasion was a peculiarly stormy one, and it was necessary to keep the coolies under hatches for a considerable time, the result being much sickness and a mortality of 6·07 per cent. The Government of India have now notified, in addition to the rules above referred to, that the use of Thiers' ventilators will be proscribed after the month of October 1893. The increasing use of powerful steamers, especially those of the British India and the Anchor Line Companies, has since in several cases allowed of vessels being altogether exempted from the provisions as to artificial ventilators when travelling viâ the Suez Canal or to Mauritius. The ordinary cowl-head and shaft ventilation has in such cases been decided to be fully sufficient.

2. The following table, gathered from various parts of the Protector's Report, shows in a succinct form the number of emigrants (1) demanded by the various colonies, (2) actually collected and registered by the sub-agents working under the orders of the Agents for those colonies, (3) despatched to and received in the Calcutta depôts, (4) embarked for the colonies :—

	Requisitioned.		Registered.		Arrived in depôt.		Embarked.

Trinidad	2,658	3,500	4,515	5,122	3,697	4,266	2,897	3,435
St. Lucia	...	510	...	245	...	189	...	...

Mauritius	1,417	560	2,762	1,899	2,430	1,604	2,000	1,110
Natal	750	900	1,573	2,442	1,258	1,684	693	1,432
Fiji	750	1,100	899	1,600	883	1,441	675	1,155
Surinam	1,200	1,256	1,594	1,822	1,522	1,632	1,256	1,256
Total ...	9,945	13,826	16,813	23,078	14,028	18,064	10,947	13,061

With the exception of Mauritius, every colony called for a greater number of emigrants than in the previous year, and the two West Indian colonies Santa Lucia and Jamaica, which had not taken any coolies since 1884-85, again sent in requisitions; the total number requisitioned shows an increase of 3,881 and the number actually embarked an increase of 2,114. The number shown in the above table as embarked includes all souls, of whom 12,154 were statute adults, thus falling short of the requisition by 1,672. The explanation of the deficit is that the report is for the calendar year, while the emigration season, i.e., the period during which vessels may be despatched from Calcutta, extends for the West Indian colonies up to the 31st January, while that for Fiji begins on the 1st December and ends on the 15th July, and that for

Natal and Mauritius extends throughout the year. It will be seen that the numbers which arrived in the Calcutta depôts far exceeded the colonial requisitions, and it is reported that the deficit above mentioned was almost entirely made up in the first three months of the present year. The actual despatches as compared with previous years are shown by the following figures:—

1888.		1889.		1890.
Statute adults.	Total souls.	Statute adults.	Total souls.	Statute adults.	Total souls.
6,544½	7,121	10,041½	10,047	12,154	13,061

Speaking generally, the increased numbers asked for were due to the improving prospects of the sugar industry. From the Indian point of view, the steady increase of emigration is extremely satisfactory, coupled as it has been in the year now reported on by a complete absence of any serious complaints as to the life and treatment of the coolies in the colonies.

Recruiting, registration, &c.

3. The history given by the Protector of the emigrants previous to their despatch from this country presents few noteworthy points. The most striking feature is the marked transfer of the seat of recruitment from Bengal to the North-Western Provinces and Oudh. The following statement gives the figures for the two last years:—

	1889.	1890.
From Bengal and Bihar	7,818	6,646
From North-Western Provinces and Oudh ...	8,995	16,432
Total recruited ...	16,813	23,078

In the previous year (1889) the district of the 24-Pergunnahs headed the list with 3,394 registrations. Next came Shahabad with 2,630, and then Benares with 2,085. In the year under review Benares heads the list easily with 3,043; then come Ghazipur and the Oudh district of Fyzabad with 2,204 and 2,055 respectively; and after them the 24-Pergunnahs and Shahabad with 2,027 and 1,813.

Registrations, however, do not give a true indication of the sources from which the emigrants are drawn, as large numbers have previously left their homes before they register as emigrants to the colonies. The statement given by the Protector showing the native districts of the recruits brings the district of Azamgarh to the front with 2,823 emigrants, followed by Basti, Ghazipur and Balia, and by Shahabad in the fifth place only.

There is practically no clashing of interests between recruiters for colonial purposes and those who collect for Assam and Cachar, the requirements of the two classes of countries having so far been entirely distinct. Assam prefers the Bengali and aboriginal races; the colonies recruit a large majority from the ranks of Beharis and up-country men. With regard to the 24-Pergunnahs, it has always to be explained in reviewing the year's history of recruitment that the figures are entirely misleading. Out of the 2,027 emigrants registered in this district, only 10 were natives of the district. The Protector again raises the complaint that many of these 2,027 were brought down to Calcutta professedly under the free system of inland emigration, and that on arrival they were drafted to colonial depôts. The facts are beyond all doubt, but as long as the free emigration system continues it must be so, and the Lieutenant-Governor does not see any serious objection to the practise, so long as the Protector is certified that they are willing and suitable emigrants to the colonies.

Emigrants unaccounted for after registration and rejections.

4. The total failure of the Agents to account through their sub-agents for the very large number of emigrants registered at the sub-depôts who never reach the Calcutta depôts, and also the increasing proportion of rejections at those depôts, are two important matters. It is represented that the Agents are not able to visit the up-country sub-depôts in any systematic manner during the busy recruiting season, and that the sub-agents are in many cases exceedingly ignorant and too often unscrupulous; but at the same time the hardship and loss incurred by drawing people from their own villages to registering stations and then either losing sight of them altogether, or having to return them from Calcutta by a journey of several days' duration, are so obvious that it would seem well worth while to make some serious attempt to face the matter. The Lieutenant-Governor believes that a good deal might be done by the Agents visiting their sub-depôts up-country, even if they have to make considerable efforts in order to spare time from their other duties, and also by a very careful selection of sub-agents. If emigration continues to prosper and recruiting to expand, as it has done during the last year, there should be little difficulty in attracting a superior class of men to do the work. If nothing can be done in the direction above indicated, there remains the course proposed by the Protector to require a register of all coolies accommodated at each sub depôt to be kept up in proper form under the supervision of the Magistrate of the district. The Protector is desired to give the matter his further consideration, and to report fully on the necessity of the latter course. In explanation of the above remarks the figures may here be noted. Out of the 23,078 emigrants registered, no less than 4,753 never reached the Calcutta depôts and were totally unaccounted for; while out of the 19,336 who were accommodated in the depôts, as many as 1,830 or a percentage of 9·46 were rejected as unfit to be sent to the colonies. The above figure, 19,336, includes 1,272 persons transferred from other depôts, remaining from the previous year and born in depôts.

Depôt management.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor has read with pleasure the report of the Medical Inspector, Surgeon-Major J. F. P. McConnell, on the health and good management of the depôts. There was a slight increase in the percentage of hospital admissions from 6·12 in 1889 to 6·13 in 1890, but on the other hand the percentage of deaths decreased from 0·72 to 0·68. These figures are satisfactory when it is considered that during a great part of the season the depôts were largely occupied. There were 26 cases and 18 deaths from cholera, as against 13 and 9 in the preceding year, the increase being due to the greater prevalence of the disease in and around Calcutta. Measles as usual gave considerable trouble both in depôt and on ship-board. The question of increasing the number of days during which emigrants must be detained in depôt previous to embarkation was again before Government, but it was decided not to alter the present minimum of seven days or the Protector's discretion to let emigrants sail, if necessary, without undergoing even that period.

Return emigrants.

6. Seven sailing ships and five steamers returned from the colonies bringing 4,739 homeward-bound emigrants, of whom 112, or 2·36 per cent., died on the voyage. The aggregate savings of these people amounted to no less than Rs. 6,96,176, or nearly Rs. 147 per head. It is observed that by far the lowest average per head is saved in the colonies of Fiji and Mauritius. No explanation of this is given, nor is it apparent in the case of Fiji. In the case of Mauritius it appears to be connected with the low rate of wages given, viz. Rs 5 to Rs. 7 per month to a male adult and Rs. 3 to Rs. 4 to a female, in addition to daily rations, as against the other colonies, where the rate is about one shilling a day to an adult male and 8 or 9 pence to a female. Natal shows the largest average savings, namely Rs. 263-3-5 per head, and is followed by Trinidad with Rs. 236-11-6 per head.

The average duration of the voyage of return ships from the West Indies was 137 days, as against 92 days on the outward voyage from India. The question of extra provisioning for homeward-bound ships in addition to the scale provided by the emigration rules for ships bound to the West Indies is under the consideration of the Supreme Government, both as regards sailing ships and steamers.

Administration of estates.

7. The estates of deceased emigrants are divided into three classes—(1) those who die in depôt and on the outward voyage, (2) those who die in the colonies, (3) those who die on the voyage home or in depôt immediately on arrival in Calcutta and before being sent to their homes up-country.

If the heirs cannot be traced, the estates of classes (1) and (3) lapse to the Indian Government; those of class (2) to the Colonial Governments. The progress of administration of classes (1) and (3) has been very fair during the year under report. Ninety-one such estates were under administration, amounting to Rs. 14,230, of which Rs. 11,435 were disposed of, leaving Rs. 2,795 still under enquiry. In the case of 20 estates, amounting to Rs. 261, the heirs could not be traced, and this amount therefore lapsed to the Indian Government.

The administration of class (2) was not so satisfactory. Out of 431 estates, aggregating Rs. 59,160, no less than Rs. 43,269 remained undisposed of at the close of the year. Great delay is caused by the necessity of having to correspond with the colonies, and the delay is finally aggravated in the case of several colonies by a refusal to pay to heirs, where traced, except on succession certificates. The Lieutenant-Governor recognizes the desirability of proper enquiries before the assets of an estate are handed over, but in his opinion the Protector is capable of making such enquiries, and it is unnecessary to insist on the production of the decision of a court, in the obtaining of which there is sure to be a considerable amount of delay. It appears from the report that the Colonial Governments undertook a few years ago to arrange for more prompt payments, but that the arrangements fell through. The Protector is desired to consult the Agents and report fully on the subject of the delays generally and the succession certificate question in particular.

Finance.

8. Owing to the impetus which recruitment received there has been a marked improvement in the financial position of the Colonial Emigration Fund, and the Protector reports that there was at the close of the year a balance of Rs. 8,384-6-3, from which relief can, if necessary, be given to the Madras portion of the Fund. The Lieutenant-Governor will consider this question and pass orders thereon.

9. From the above summary it will be seen that the year 1890 was in every way a successful one for colonial emigration; and in recognizing the fact the Lieutenant-Governor desires to express his thanks to those officers to whom in no small degree the result was due, namely to the Protector of Emigrants, Surgeon-Major D. W. D. Comins; to the Medical Inspectors, and to the Emigration Agents for the respective Colonial Governments. Dr. Comins is at present, at the request of some of the colonies, visiting the West Indies with a view to becoming personally acquainted with the condition and treatment of the emigrants in their adopted homes. He has already visited St. Lucia, Trinidad, and Demerara, and will, it is hoped, extend his visit to the remaining British colonies, and by permission of the Governments of France and the Netherlands to the French colonies and to Surinam.

Explanation.— . . indicate that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 11th August 1891.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, THE 8TH OF AUGUST 1891.

On the 31st of July a cyclonic storm of considerable intensity had formed in the Bay of Bengal to the north-west of Diamond Island, and it then commenced to move in a north-westerly or north-north-westerly direction. On the 1st of August the storm was to the west of Akyab in perhaps latitude 19° to 20° N,. and longitude 90° to 91° E. It was giving very heavy weather in the Bay, and strong winds were reported to the east and south of the storm, and hence storm-warning signals were hoisted in the Hooghly and at Chittagong from the morning of the 1st. On the morning of the 2nd, or the first day of the week under review, the storm centre was nearly over the Sunderbuns between Chittagong and Saugor Island, and it had therefore again advanced in a north-westerly direction. It here suddenly changed the direction of its advance, and during the second moved along the face of the Sunderbuns in a due westerly direction, and it passed close to Saugor Island between 8 P.M. of the 2nd and 2 A.M. of the 3rd, passing apparently a little to the south of it, and during the passage the very low pressure of less than 29·3 inches was recorded. At 8 A.M. of the 3rd the centre had crossed the coast and was to the west of Balasore, where pressure equalled only 29·293 inches. The storm as it passed over the land was not a very severe one, giving only an ordinary gale of wind, but from reports received from vessels involved in the storm, it appears to have been a decidedly fierce one at sea. On the morning of the 3rd, as the storm centre was well inland, the storm signals which had previously been hoisted were lowered. On the 4th the storm centre was probably in the west of Chutia Nagpur, though, as there are no meteorological observatories over this area, its exact position is difficult to determine; but it is clear that the westerly movement of the 2nd to the 3rd had again been changed into a north-westerly movement, or to the movement it originally had on the 31st to the 2nd. On the morning of the 5th the centre of the small storm was near Sutna, so that it had again advanced in a north-westerly direction, but on this day it appears to have rapidly filled up, and on the morning of the 6th it had practically ceased to exist.

In the passage of the small storm across the head of the Bay, and in its north-westerly advance through the extreme south-western districts of Bengal, rather heavy rain was brought up, first by the storm itself and afterwards by the strong advance of monsoon winds which followed in its rear. The heavy rain was, however, mainly confined to the western and southern divisions of the province, for East and North Bengal during this period received only light and local rain.

From the 5th, however, conditions again began to change at the head of the Bay, and pressure became comparatively low at Saugor Island and Balasore, and showed a distinct tendency to form a feeble depression over this area, while round a centre to the west of Saugor Island winds showed a decided tendency to set up a cyclonic circulation. On the 6th a distinct but exceedingly feeble depression existed, partly over the north-west angle of the Bay and partly over South-West Bengal, and the cyclonic circulation became a little more clearly defined. On the 7th conditions were almost the same except that the centre of the circulation of winds was to the south of Saugor Island, and that heavy rain had commenced to fall at that station. The small whirl or depression then commenced to advance in a north-westerly direction, and on the morning of the 8th it was in the south of Chutia Nagpur. During its existence at the head of the Bay it was throughout a very feeble depression.

During the second half of the week, therefore, conditions have again been favourable for rainfall in the southern and western divisions of the province, and hence Orissa and Chutia Nagpur have received falls in excess of the normal; in South-West Bengal and South Behar the falls have been almost normal, but over the remainder of the province rainfall has been in decided defect.

Pressure.—The variations of pressure during the week have been to a great extent dependent, first, on the movement of the cyclonic storm which passed along the head of the Bay through the south-western districts, and secondly, on the development of the feeble whirl near Saugor Island. Thus on the 2nd pressure was falling moderately in South-West Bengal and Orissa, while elsewhere there was a moderate increase. On the 3rd a very rapid fall occurred in the neighbourhood of the depression and over Chutia Nagpur and Behar, the fall at Balasore being 0·146″, and the pressure at that station being 0·23″ below the normal, while in the east and north of the province pressure was rising. On the 4th pressure had risen over the whole province, particularly in the rear of the depression, and at Balasore an increase of 0·219″ was reported. From the 5th pressure began to fall, the decrease continuing on the 6th in the southern and south-western districts in connection with the formation of the small whirl, while in North Bengal and Behar pressure was rising. On the 7th pressure changes were small and of little importance, and on the 8th pressure rose generally except at a few of the south-western stations in the neighbourhood of the depression. For the whole week, therefore, the mean pressure over the province has been considerably in defect of the normal, the defect ranging from about 0·03″ to 0·04″ at the northern stations to almost a tenth of an inch at Saugor Island, Balasore, Midnapore, and False Point.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature have as usual followed the variations in the amounts of rainfall. The mean temperature for the week has been decidedly (1·9°) in defect of the normal in Orissa and about normal in South-West Bengal and Chutia Nagpur, but in the other divisions there has been a general excess of about 2°. For the whole province the variation has been an excess of 1·1°. In Assam the mean temperature has been above the normal by 1·6°.

Rainfall.—In Orissa particularly heavy rain fell during the westward movement of the cyclonic storm, and on the 2nd Dharmsala, in the Cuttack district, reported 5·15 inches, Saugor Island 3·50 inches, Jagatsingpore 2·72 inches, and Sorah 2 inches; while on the 3rd the following heavy falls were received:—Garwah 8·06 inches, Kendrapara 6·21 inches, Jajpore 6·09 inches, False Point 5·39 inches, Bhuddruck 5·30 inches, Salipore 4·92 inches, Chandbali 4·90 inches, Mankur 4·70 inches, and Akhayapada 4·40 inches, while there were very numerous falls of two and three inches. For the remainder of the week the rainfall was generally lighter.

In Orissa the average fall for the week has been 5·50 inches, or more than twice the normal fall; in Chutia Nagpur the fall has averaged 3·64 inches, or about ten per cent. in excess of the normal; and in South-West Bengal and South Behar the falls have averaged about two-and-a-half inches, or falls about twenty per cent. in defect. In the other divisions the amounts of rainfall have been small; in East Bengal the fall has only equalled 1·45 inches, or about one-third of the normal, in North Bengal only an average amount of 0·78 inch has been recorded, or about a fourth of the normal, and in North Behar only 0·47 inch is recorded, or a sixth of the normal fall.

In the case of the smaller districts in South-West Bengal the falls have been decidedly deficient in Moorshodabad, Nuddea, Jessore, and Khoolna; in East Bengal in Chittagong, Backergunge, Noakholly, Furreedpore, Dacca, Comilla, and Mymensingh; in all the districts of North Bengal and North Behar, and in South Behar in Patna and Sonthal Pergunnahs.

In Assam during the week Sibsagar has received 4·13 inches, Silchar 2·71 inches, and Dhubri 0·37 inch of rain.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 8th of August 1891:—

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0·6° higher; and finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

NEW ZEALAND.

SOUTH ISLAND—EAST COAST.

Intended alterations in lights—Timaru harbour.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 295 of 1891) that on 1st November 1891 the following alterations will be made in the lights of Timaru harbour, east coast of South island, New Zealand:—

(1) Timaru principal light will be a fixed white light, with a sector of green light visible through an arc of 22° or between the bearings of S.S.W. and South. It will be elevated 85 feet above the sea, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 14 miles.

The illuminating apparatus will be dioptric, or by lenses, of the fifth order.

The light-house will be as heretofore, 30 feet in height, constructed of wood, and painted white.

Position; lat. 44° 23½′ S., long. 171° 18½′ E.

(2) The light exhibited from the end of Timaru eastern breakwater will be a red light, visible seaward between the bearings of W.N.W. through West and S.E.; it will be elevated 33 feet above high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of 5 miles.

(3) The light shown from the end of Timaru north mole will be a green light, visible seaward between the bearings of W.N.W. through West and S.E.; it will be elevated 16 feet above high water, and should be seen in clear weather from a distance of one mile.

NOTE.—Mariners are cautioned, that after these alterations have been carried out, on approaching Timaru, and when anchoring outside the harbour, they should keep the white light in sight. If compelled to enter the harbour, the white light must be brought to bear S.W., and be kept on that bearing until the entrance lights are seen; after which a vessel may stand to the westward to open those lights, but not so far as to enter the sector of green light, shown from the principal light-house, until within a quarter of a mile of the eastern breakwater.

The sector of green light shows over the Lyttelton wreck, and is intended as a warning to keep clear of that wreck, and of the Ninety miles beach.

Except in vessels of small tonnage, and those the masters of which are well acquainted with the harbour, the attempt to enter the harbour at night should not be made without a pilot. This warning is also rendered necessary by the fact that a vessel moored at the outer buoy is in the fairway.

RESOLUTION ON THE STATISTICAL RETURNS OF VACCINATION IN BENGAL FOR 1890-91 WITH BRIEF NOTES BY THE SANITARY COMMISSIONER.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—SANITATION

Calcutta, the 13th August 1891.

RESOLUTION No. 1823.

READ—

The statistical returns of vaccination in Bengal for 1890-91 with brief notes by the Sanitary Commissioner.

Read also—

The statistical returns for 1889-90, which were incorporated with the triennial report on vaccination for 1887—90, and the Resolution recorded on it.

The statistical returns of vaccination for 1890-91 have been submitted with brief notes by Dr. W. H. Gregg, Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal, who was in charge of the department throughout the year. Under recent orders these returns should have reached Government on the 15th June, but they were not received until the 20th July. The delay is said to have been due to the difficulty of obtaining the necessary statistics from several municipalities. It is hoped that in future years arrangements will be made for the more punctual submission of municipal returns. The vaccination work carried on in municipalities is on a comparatively small scale, and the statements setting forth its results ought to be ready within a fortnight from the close of the official year.

2. The following table shows the strength of the working establishment in 1890-91 and the previous year :—

Year	Superintendents.	Deputy Superintendents.	Inspectors.	Head vaccinators or supervisors.	Vaccinators		Apprentices.		Remarks.
					Paid	Licensed.	Paid.	Licensed.
1890-91	8*	14	119	15	145	1,631	14	594	* Including the Health Officer of the town of Calcutta, who is in charge of the vaccination work of the town.
1889-90	8*	14	110	21	179	1,480	31	588

The increase in the number of licensed vaccinators was caused by the extension of the licensed system in the Eastern Bengal, Behar, and Orissa circles. Four additional Inspectors were appointed in the Ranchee Circle, and the Assistant Surgeon in charge of vaccination and sanitation in the suburbs of Calcutta was replaced by a special Inspector.

3. The following table shows the total number of vaccinations performed in 1890-91 as compared with those for 1889-90 :—

	1890-91.	1889-90
Calcutta	17,498	26,280
Metropolitan Circle	388,857	417,822
Darjeeling ditto	492,675	445,711
Ranchee ditto	147,203	149,682
Eastern Bengal ditto	321,706	391,816
Orissa ditto	138,715	101,588
Behar ditto	239,407	170,389
Total vaccination circles ...	1,746,061	1,703,288
Municipalities and dispensaries, &c. ...	87,917	102,182
Grand Total ...	1,833,978	1,805,470

4. There has been an increase of 28,508 cases in the Darjeeling, Orissa and Behar circles of vaccination, and a decrease in the Metropolitan, Ranchee and Eastern Bengal circles, as well as in municipalities and in the town of Calcutta. The Metropolitan and Eastern Bengal circles and the municipalities show a very marked falling off, the numbers being 28,965, 70,110 and 14,265 respectively. The decrease of 8,782 or 33·4 per cent. in the town of Calcutta is attributed to the large number of operations (26,280) during the small-pox epidemic of the previous year having left fewer subjects to be operated on during the year under report. In the Eastern Bengal Circle, where the ratio of decrease reaches 18·0 per cent., and corresponds closely to the reduction shown in the number of operations, the Deputy Superintendent explains that in Chittagong the number of operations fell off by 103,507—a decrease which he ascribes to the fact that the licensed vaccinators had to work in the areas which had been gone over by them in the previous year. However this may be, it is a significant fact that during the last three years vaccination in the Chittagong district shows a progressive falling off, as indicated in the following statement :—

1888-89	287,818
1889-90	151,855
1890-91	47,526,

and that the close of the last year in the series was marked by a serious outbreak of small-pox in the town of Chittagong, in the course of which it became apparent that the people regarded vaccination with considerable distrust. Inquiry into the recent management of vaccination in the town showed that out of 547 persons vaccinated during the year 1887-88 within Municipal limits under the immediate supervision of the Civil Surgeon, as many as 331 or 60·5 per cent. had been attacked by small-pox. In 1888-89 the proportion of attacked among those who had been vaccinated was 39·1; in the next year 31·5, and it was only in 1890-91, when the outbreak had drawn attention to the subject, that the proportion fell to 6·5 per cent. When vaccination carried on in a limited area, with exceptional facilities for constant supervision, is found to yield such defective results, it becomes difficult to believe in the accuracy of the returns of successful operations in areas where no thorough check can be applied. It is clear that in many parts of Bengal the people have a strong prejudice against the lymph that is used for vaccination, and until this prejudice has been removed by fuller experience of the benefits of vaccination, no real and continuous progress can be looked for. Distrust of the lymph seems to be the main cause which hinders the expansion of the operations of the Department, and the efforts of the Sanitary Commissioner should now be directed to the production of lymph of a sound and uniform character. This branch of the subject has hitherto not been very fully treated in the annual report. In future reports the Lieutenant-Governor would wish the Sanitary Commissioner to show more clearly what is done to secure good lymph, not only on a first distribution to the vaccinator, but as used by him eventually; what checks there are on his return of operations and of success; what reports and complaints regarding bad lymph are received, and what amount of truth is in them.

5. The percentage of successful cases, excluding cases the results of which are unknown, is returned as 99·25 for primary and 39·62 for secondary operations. The statistics of secondary operations give a successful percentage in Eastern Bengal of 83·33 and in Orissa of 94·11. Experience tends to show that it is extremely improbable that so large a ratio of success should be attained in cases of this class, and such returns cannot be accepted as trustworthy. Each licensed vaccinator performed on an average 694 operations against 733 in 1889-90, and each Government vaccinator 1,207 against 893 in the previous year, the average for the three years 1887—90 being 1,475 for Government vaccinators and 671 for licensed vaccinators. For municipal vaccinators the average fell from 405 in 1889-90 to 346 in the year under report. The proportion of males among persons vaccinated was 51·60, and of females 48·40.

6. In every circle the returns of supervision done by the Superintendents of Vaccination show an appreciable increase in the number of cases inspected. The percentage of such cases to the total number of vaccinations ranges from 29·81 in the Orissa Circle to 3·38 in the Darjeeling Circle, and ·60 in the town of Calcutta. On the other hand, five out of the fourteen Deputy Superintendents did a smaller amount of inspection than in the preceding year. The work of inspection, however, cannot be judged only by quantity, and the Sanitary Commissioner ought to satisfy himself by personal examination that these returns of villages visited and cases inspected really represent a careful examination of the work done by the licensed or salaried vaccinators, and not merely a hurried compliance with an arbitrary departmental standard of supervision.

7. Some interesting results may be arrived at by comparing the registered deaths from small-pox as shown for each district in Bengal in Statement V (b) with the diagram given on page 11, to illustrate the proportion of the population protected by vaccination during the last seven years. If the returns of successful vaccinations and the mortuary statistics were both accurate, it might be expected, as a general rule, that districts with the highest proportion of persons protected by vaccination would have the lowest death-rates from small-pox, and conversely that districts, where only a small proportion of the population is protected, would show a comparatively high small-pox mortality. Notwithstanding the admitted imperfection of both sets of figures, a distinct tendency towards some such correspondence between increased protection and reduced death-rate may be traced on the diagram referred to. The following districts returning a high vaccination rate show, with the single exception of Chittagong, a low death-rate from small-pox, thus—

	Protected per 1,000 for 1881—91.	Death-rate per 1,000 for 1890-91.
Darjeeling	680	·01
Chittagong	460	·32
Backergunge	325	·03
Singbhoom	280	·18
Tipperah	278	·02
Maldah	268	·02

while the following districts, with a low ratio of protected population, have a comparatively high death-rate from small-pox :—

	Protected per 1,000 for 1884—91.	Death-rate per 1,000 for 1890-91.
Mozufferpore	97	·20
Durbhunga	10	·10
Sarun	60	27
Chumparun	79	·87
Gya	89	·40
Puri	127	·84
Midnapore	160	·98

It should be added that in Chittagong, the one district where the statistics appear to conflict with the tendency noticed above, recent inquiries have shown that the work of vaccination was very indifferently done during the last three years, and that the protection afforded was little better than nominal. On the whole, therefore, there seem to be statistical grounds for the conclusion that some real progress is being made, and that vaccination in Bengal, in spite of bad lymph and careless operators, does afford substantial protection from small-pox. In order to make the protection more effective and to extend its range, it seems to the Lieutenant-Governor that considerable changes must be introduced into the internal organization of the Department. Closer local supervision, and more intimate relations with the district executive, seem to be needed in order to induce the people to take more freely to vaccination; and Sir Charles Elliott doubts whether this object can be attained under a system which has all the defects of centralisation, and few, if any, of its advantages.

8. The total cost of vaccination was Rs. 1,82,400-4-3 against Rs. 1,72,696-5-9 in 1889-90, showing an increase of Rs. 9,703-14-6. The average cost of each successful case has also increased from one anna six pie in 1889-90 to one anna and seven pie in 1890-91. It was as usual highest in Calcutta, where each operation cost Re. 1-3-4, and lowest in Eastern Bengal, where the cost was only ten pie.

9. Dr. Gregg again speaks very unfavourably of the working of the animal vaccination depôt in Calcutta. The lymph supplied in tubes has frequently failed even when used immediately on receipt from the depôt, and its failure is ascribed by Dr. Gregg to carelessness in extraction and storage. This is the third time that the working of the depôt has been reported as unsatisfactory, and the Superintendent of the Metropolitan circle, who was in charge of it, has since been transferred to another appointment. The establishment of an animal vaccination depôt at Darjeeling has been under consideration for some time past, but considerable difficulty was found in obtaining a proper site. A suitable piece of land has at last been selected at the north base of Senchal. Steps are being taken to provide the necessary buildings, and it is hoped that the depôt will be got into working order during the current year.

10. In discussing the attitude of the people towards vaccination, the Sanitary Commissioner writes as if they had only now discovered that the operation is not compulsory in rural areas. He says that many members of the higher and wealthier Hindu castes habitually evade vaccination, and that everywhere there is difficulty in realising the vaccinator's fees. As a remedy for the former difficulty, Dr. Gregg proposes to extend the compulsory clauses of the Vaccination Act to rural areas; while he suggests that the latter might be got over by making a vaccinator's fees recoverable through the village panchayat like the chowkidari tax. Neither suggestion seems to the Lieutenant-Governor to be practicable nor desirable. The whole question of the organisation of the Vaccination Department is now under consideration, and Sir Charles Elliott would rather remodel it on a district or divisional basis, so as to extend the duties of the Civil Surgeon, than resort to compulsory provisions without adequate machinery to enforce them.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JULY 1891.

THE principal features in the meteorology of July have been—

1. Pressure has on the whole been in decided defect from the normal for a considerable portion of the month.

2. Temperature has been almost normal in all divisions of Bengal except South Behar, where a very distinct excess temperature has been registered.

3. The strength of the monsoon current blowing during the month, as judged by the wind velocities at the stations on and near the coast, has been decidedly above the normal of former years, and the direction of the winds appears for a considerable part of July to have been more strongly westerly than is usual, and the rain-bearing current has hence been deflected more towards Burma than is usual.

4. The number of barometric depressions or cyclonic storms forming in the Bay during July has been small. Only one depression of any importance formed at the head of the Bay on the 24th of the month and passed inland, and there was one cyclonic storm which was formed in the east of the Bay at the end of the month, but which did not reach land until August.

5. The average humidity has been practically normal during the month, while the average cloud proportion has, if anything, been rather larger than usual.

6. The average amount of rainfall in North Bengal was distinctly in excess of the normal. The falls in East Bengal, South-West Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur, were practically normal; and those in North and South Behar from 15 to 18 per cent in defect of the normal, while in Orissa the falls were very decidedly deficient, and were only three-fourths of the usual amount.

Meteorology of the month.—Up till almost the close of June the meteorological conditions in Bengal and in the Bay were very abnormal, for the monsoon rains had not set in till the 27th to the 29th of June, or at least two weeks later than usual; but after that general rain had fallen in Bengal during the last two or three days of the month. The monsoon current, however, blowing over Bengal was feeble, and on the 1st of July conditions had again changed, and the monsoon current became strongly deflected towards Burma. The feeble cyclonic circulation of winds off the Arakan coast, which had existed so long in June, was again noticed on this day, and thus the monsoon current did not pass up to head of the Bay, and for the first three days of July rainfall was light and local in Orissa and in South-West and East Bengal. The slight whirl off the Arakan coast disappeared on the 3rd, and the monsoon current then advanced up the Bay over Bengal, and general rain was again received over the province from the 4th instant. From this date up to the 10th, the changes in the meteorological conditions do not call for any detailed remark. A strong monsoon current was blowing over Bengal from the Bay, but the direction of the current was rather more westerly than usual. Moderate to heavy rain was being received, particularly during the period from the 4th to the 8th or 9th, though rainfall became generally more local and rather lighter from the 9th to the 11th or 12th, while in East Bengal, Behar, and Chutia Nagpur the slight break continued up to the 15th.

On the 11th pressure became relatively low in the north-west angle of the Bay, and round this low pressure area a distinct cyclonic circulation of winds was set up, and the winds over the whole of Bengal formed part of this circulation. Hence winds which on the 10th had been westerly and south-westerly over the whole province, suddenly became easterly and south-easterly, but the amount of rain brought up by the change of conditions was small and the falls were very local. The depression over the north-west angle of the Bay continued to exist up till the 14th, when a rapid fall of pressure took place in the north of the province, which transferred the area of lowest pressure to Behar, when winds became more southerly generally over the province. On the 15th and 16th a rapid fall of pressure took place in the south-east of Bengal, and a distinct low pressure area was formed, represented by such stations as Dacca, Mymensing, Bogra, and Berhampur, and with this distribution of pressure westerly winds commenced to drive back the easterly winds which had previously been blowing, and with the interaction between the two wind systems thus set up, rather heavy rain commenced from this date. The low pressure area just referred to filled up on the 17th, and from the 18th the pressure distribution became more normal, though conditions were still favourable for general and rather heavy rainfall.

At this time ordinary monsoon weather prevailed in all districts, and light to moderate rain was general in all divisions except Orissa, where it was rather local. On the 19th and 20th pressure had fallen by moderate amounts, the fall being largest in parts of South-West Bengal and in Orissa, and a feeble low-pressure area was again formed over the north-west angle of the Bay with the lowest pressure at Saugor Island. Winds also showed a distinct tendency to circulate cyclonically round a centre near Saugor Island. Light rainfall only was reported on those days and was confined almost entirely to Orissa, South-West Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur. On the 21st pressure had risen moderately over the whole province, the increase being largest over the area previously occupied by the feeble depression in South-West Bengal, which, with its attendant feeble cyclonic circulation of winds, had practically disappeared on this day. Again on the 21st light showers only were reported in parts of South-West, East and North Bengal, and in Chutia Nagpur, while the remainder of the province was practically rainless. On the 22nd pressure had fallen at Calcutta, Saugor Island, and a few other stations, while over the province generally pressure was rising, and the low-pressure area near the north-west angle of the Bay therefore on this day again reproduced itself, and winds as before commenced to show a tendency to cyclonic circulation round this area, though the wind force was light. On the 22nd moderate rain was reported in Assam and at some of the stations in North Bengal, while light and local rain had fallen in South Bengal, but elsewhere it was almost rainless On the 23rd and 24th the feeble low-pressure area in South-West Bengal and over the north-west angle of the Bay became, if anything, a little more marked than it had been. The feeble cyclonic circulation of winds continued, the centre of the circulation on the 24th being between Calcutta, Midnapore, and Saugor Island; but winds were still only light to moderate in force. General rain was reported from all districts except parts of Orissa and Behar, and conditions on the 24th appeared to be more favourable generally for rainfall. On the morning of the 25th very rapid meteorological changes were reported. The feeble depression over South-West Bengal and part of the north-west angle of the Bay developed suddenly and rather rapidly, and on the 25th a very definite and rather influential barometric depression had been produced, the centre of which was over the Sunderbuns to the east of Saugor Island. The fall of pressure at Saugor Island and Calcutta equalled about 0·13," and the very low pressure of 29·35" was reported from Saugor Island, which was no less than 0 172" below the normal. The cyclonic circulation of winds had become very complete, and the wind directions over the greater part of the province were included in this circulation, while wind velocities ran up very rapidly, and strong winds were reported on the morning of the 25th at many stations, while over the northern part of the Bay on this day very squally weather existed, and a gale of wind was blowing.

Immediately after this development, the small storm began to advance in a north-westerly direction, and on the morning of the 26th the storm was in the west of Chutia Nagpur; but as there are no meteorological observatories over that area, the precise position of its centre is doubtful On the 27th the centre of the storm was near Jubbulpur and Sutna, on the 28th it was near Jhansi, on the 29th it was to the west of Ajmere, and on the 30th the centre was apparently near Bikanir, but the storm was decidedly more feeble and was evidently filling up. During the whole of its existence the storm was accompanied by a strong cyclonic circulation of winds, and in its rear a heavy wave of moisture-laden monsoon winds spread over the whole of Northern India, and brought general rainfall to practically the whole of the Punjab and other parts of Northern India which had been up to that time almost rainless during the present monsoon season.

During the passage of the small storm through the south-western districts of Bengal, very heavy rain was received, and with the wave of monsoon winds which followed it, conditions remained favourable for rainfall up till the 30th, and from the 26th to the 30th rainfall was fairly general and of moderate amount in all districts. The alterations of meteorological conditions from day to day in Bengal during this period do not call for any detailed remark. From the 29th, however, the conditions in the Bay began to alter. A decidedly rapid fall of pressure took place at the central stations in the east of the Bay, the fall being largest (0·103") at Diamond Island; wind also became strongly westerly in Burma and east-south-easterly at Akyab, pointing to the possible commencement of a feeble cyclonic circulation of winds, but the winds were very light. On the 30th a further rapid fall of pressure took place at the eastern stations, and winds again showed a feeble tendency to cyclonic circulation over the east of the Bay, though winds were still light, and up to this date probably no storm had formed. On the 31st pressure continued to fall generally, winds again showed rather cyclonic directions, but the circulation was decidedly incomplete, though strong winds commenced to blow at Diamond Island and the Burma stations generally. The land observations on this day indicated that a distinct barometric depression had formed over the east of the Bay, but they did not show any very definite centre to this depression. It is probable, however, that a distinct cyclonic storm had formed to the north-west of Diamond Island on the 31st, but the land observations certainly did not show that it was of any great strength. This storm afterwards intensified considerably and moved first in a north-westerly, then in a westerly, and finally again in a north-westerly direction, and in its progress it skirted the Sunderbans and passed inland between Saugor Island and Balasore on the 3rd of August.

From the 30th, during the formation of the storm in the Bay, winds in the west and centre of Bengal began to show indraught towards the sea area, and became therefore northerly and north-westerly. Rainfall at once commenced to decrease in amount and area, a large part of the province became practically rainless, and elsewhere rain was usually light and local. For the 30th and 31st of July, therefore, little or no rain was reported in the province.

Strength of the monsoon.—As has been previously mentioned, the wind directions which have been recorded generally during the month have indicated that the monsoon current has contained an unusually strong westerly element in it, and hence the current has been deflected rather strongly towards Burma. Notwithstanding this, the strength of the monsoon current blowing from the Bay over Bengal this year appears to have been greater than usual. The strength of the current from year to year can at present only be judged by the wind velocities at the coast stations. In the table below are given the means of the actual daily wind velocities for July 1890 and 1891, and also a comparison of the velocities recorded in the present year with the normal values for the same period for seven representative stations on and near the coast line from Akyab to Gopalpur It will be seen that at all the stations except Chittagong the wind velocity during July has been decidedly in excess of the normal value. This fact would therefore point to the conclusion that the strength of the monsoon has been greater than usual. It is, however, to be remarked that in this method of measurement only one element of the strength of the monsoon current is taken into consideration, for it is clear that an equally important factor in the current will be its vertical depth, and this there is at present no means of measuring. Thus though the strength of the winds near the earth's surface may have been greater this year than usual, it is probable that the depth or thickness of the monsoon current has been smaller than usual :—

Pressure.—Was at the commencement of the month decidedly below the normal for the period, and at some stations the defects even equalled a tenth of an inch. This defect continued during the second week of the month, the general mean pressure being more than a tenth of an inch in defect, and in the north of the province, defects of 0·16″ and 0·18″ were recorded at such stations as Dinagepore, Rungpore, Julpigoree, Sibsagar, and Dhubri. From about the 12th instant, however, a rapid increase of pressure set in, but this was again followed on the 14th and 15th by a fall, and for the week ending the 18th the mean pressure of the province was almost normal In the fourth week a slight defect of about 0·02″ to 0 03″ became established, and in the last few days of the month pressure variations were large as on the 26th pressure fell rapidly with the advance of the small cyclonic storm over the province and in its rear pressure rose equally rapidly, while again at the close of the month pressure had commenced to fall with the formation of the second storm off the Pegu coast.

For the whole month the mean pressure of the province has been generally from 0 03″ to 0·05″ below the normal, and the defects are also fairly equally distributed. In Assam the mean defect was 0·053″, the defect being largest at Silchar, where it equalled 0 063″.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature during the month were of comparatively little importance, and as usual to a considerable extent followed the variations in the amounts of rainfall. The mean temperature for the month in Assam, East and South-West Bengal and Orissa was almost absolutely normal, the variation not exceeding a tenth of a degree. In North Bengal and North Behar temperature was a fifth of a degree below the normal, and in Chutia Nagpur 0 3° above it. The only division in which the variation has been large is South Behar, where an excess temperature of 1° has been registered. For the whole province the mean temperature for the month does not vary from the normal by as much as a tenth of a degree

Rainfall.—The distribution of the rainfall throughout the month has been already referred to, and therefore the amounts compared with the normal have only to be stated. North Bengal has received an average fall of 16 45 inches, or nearly two and-a-half inches in excess of the normal, while all other divisions have received falls more or less in defect. In East Bengal the average fall has equalled 16 52 inches, or less than a tenth of an inch in defect, so that the fall has been almost absolutely normal. In Chutia Nagpur an average fall of 12·74 inches has been recorded, or considerably less than half an inch in defect, which equals only about 3 per cent. of the normal. In South-West Bengal an average fall of 11·22 inches has been registered, or about three-fourths of an inch in defect, or the deficiency has equalled about 6 per cent. of the normal. The falls in Behar have averaged from 10 to 10½ inches, which have shown a defect of roughly 2 inches, and thus the falls are from 15 per cent. in defect in South Behar to 18 per cent. in North Behar. The district receiving the smallest amount of rain has been Orissa, which has only received 9·29 inches, which is more than 3 inches in defect of the ordinary fall, and hence in this division the defect has equalled about 26 per cent The variation in the number of rainy days has also to a great extent followed the variation in the amount of rainfall. Thus in North Bengal it has rained on more days than usual, and in all other districts the number of rainy days has been smaller than usual As a general rule, rain has been received on from 17 to 18 days during the month in East Bengal, on about 16 days in South-West and North Bengal, and Chutia Nagpur, on about thirteen days in Behar, and on twelve days in Orissa. In the case of Orissa, South Behar, and Chutia Nagpur, rain has fallen on from two or three days less than is usual in normal years.

The comparison of the actual rainfall of the seven meteorological divisions of the province with the normal is most accurately shown in the form of a percentage. The figures representing the rainfall for the month calculated in this way are included in the table below under the heading of July. This table gives a condensed summary of the rainfall statistics of the present year up to date for each division, the first seven columns giving the actual rainfall in each month expressed as a percentage of the normal, while the eighth column shows the actual rainfall for the first seven months expressed as a percentage of the normal for the same period. It will be seen that in July the rainfall has been fairly abundant in all divisions except Orissa and Behar. In Orissa, however, the deficiency in July followed a very much larger deficiency in June, and hence is probably more important than if it had occurred alone. In Behar the moderate deficiency of July has also followed a slight deficiency in June in North Behar, and a considerable deficiency in the same month in South Behar. The deficient rainfall in July therefore in South Behar is more important than in North Behar. Taking the rainfall of the year into consideration, it will be seen that all the divisions, except Orissa, have received falls equal to or above the normal, but that Orissa has received a defective fall of 18 per cent.:—

The variations of the amount of rainfall over the province have as usual been very large, and thus in the extreme south-eastern districts falls of from 50 to 60 inches have been recorded, while in the west of Behar and part of Orissa and Chutia Nagpur falls of less than 5 inches have been received. The extreme variations are the heavy falls of 55·64 inches at Bundarbun (Chittagong Hill Tracts), 54·83 inches at Satkanya, 52·59 inches at Kutubdia, and 50·55 inches at Cox's Bazar,—all in the Chittagong district,—to the very small falls of 2·32 inches at Sasseram, 2·47 inches at Buxar, 2·85 inches at Daudnagar (Gya district), 3·50 inches at Pooree, and 1·25 inches at Satpara (Pooree district). There are as usual two areas of heavy rainfall, one in the south-east of the province and one in the hills in the north-east of Bengal, and from these rainfall diminishes towards the western and south-western districts. The area of heavy rainfall in the north-east of the province is, however, this year not so well marked as usual, owing to the unusually strong westerly direction of the monsoon current, by which a large part of the heavy rainfall has been carried to Lower Burma, Arakan, and the south-eastern parts of Bengal.

Compared with the normal, all the extreme western and south-western districts of the province are in considerable or moderate defect, and an area running along the hills and the hills themselves in North Bengal show very largely defective falls. Areas of considerable defect are also shown in the Midnapore, 24-Pergunnahs, and Howrah districts, in Moorshedabad and Sonthal Pergunnahs, in Bogra and Pubna, and over parts of the Tipperah and Dacca districts. Elsewhere the greater part of the eastern half of the province shows a slight excess rainfall, and in the south-eastern parts, as represented by the Chittagong and Chittagong Hill Tracts, at some stations falls of from 10 to 15 inches in excess of the normal have been registered.

The following table gives full data for the comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of July in all districts of the province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance being made for the area which each station represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the weekly and monthly meteorological tables. The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past fifteen years. The second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district. The third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal rainfall as a percentage, and the fourth column gives the same information in a slightly different form, expressing as a percentage how much the district rainfall varied in excess or in defect from the normal rainfall :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h. 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last [illegible]. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed at percentage, saturated air being presented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the [illegible] stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least a tenth of an inch fall.

for the week ending Saturday, the 15th of August 1891.

Explanation.—.....indicate that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 18th August 1891.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, THE 15TH OF AUGUST 1891.

At the close of the previous week a feeble barometric depression had formed partly over the north-west angle of the Bay, and partly over South-West Bengal, the centre of the depression and of its attendant cyclonic circulation of winds being on the 7th a little to the south of Saugor Island. The small whirl on the 7th commenced to move in a north-westerly direction, and on the morning of the 8th, or the last day of the previous week, it was in the south of Chutia Nagpur. The depression continued its north-westerly advance, and on the 9th its centre was between Allahabad and Lucknow, on the 10th it was near Delhi, and on the 11th it had again advanced north-westward and had passed into the low-pressure area over the Indus valley. For the first half of the week therefore in Bengal conditions were favourable for rainfall. In the passage of the small storm through the south-western districts of the province very heavy rain fell, and with the advance of the storm in a north-westerly direction a heavy wave of moisture-laden monsoon winds swept over the province and over Northern India generally.

Conditions in Bengal, therefore, were of ordinary monsoon character up till the 11th, but on this date a strong westerly wind current swept over the western half of the province, while winds were still more or less easterly over the eastern half. Pressure also became relatively low over Central and South-East Bengal, and during the 11th a small storm was formed over this area, the centre of which on the 12th was close to Jessore or between that station and Calcutta. On the morning of the 13th the centre of the small storm had scarcely moved, and it was still between Calcutta, Jessore and Krishnagore, and was attended by a very complete cyclonic circulation of winds. The storm was also giving on this day particularly heavy rain, and Midnapore and Durbhunga, among other stations, each reported about 9 inches of rain. During the 13th the storm moved in an almost due westerly direction, and its centre on the 14th was to the west of Ranchee, while on the 15th, or the last day of the present week, the storm centre was between Allahabad and Lucknow, and it had thus moved in a north-westerly direction from the 14th to the 15th.

It will therefore be seen that during the second half of the week also conditions in Bengal were very favourable for rainfall, particularly in the south-eastern, southern, central, and western districts through which the storm passed, but that the conditions were not so favourable for rainfall over Northern Bengal and over Assam. Heavy rain considerably above the average for the period has therefore been received in Orissa, Chutia Nagpur, South-West Bengal and Behar, and to a smaller extent in East Bengal; but the rainfall in North Bengal, though considerable in quantity has been below the normal amount.

In the Bay generally during the week the monsoon current has been strong, and on one or two days the wind force has almost risen to a gale at Saugor Island.

Pressure.—On the 9th pressure rose very rapidly in the rear of the storm, an increase exceeding 0·15″ being reported from some of the stations in South West Bengal. Over Bengal generally pressure also rose more slowly as the storm was advancing into the North-West Provinces. On the 10th pressure continued to rise in the western districts, though a fall had set in over the east of the province, which fall continued on the 11th, the fall being largest at the eastern and south-eastern stations. The fall continued again on the 12th, and it was very rapid in Central and South Bengal, where at Jessore, Krishnagore, and Furreedpore it equalled 0·13″, and a well-defined barometric depression was formed at the centre of which the defect from the normal equalled about a quarter of an inch. On the 13th pressure continued to fall in Central and South-West Bengal and Orissa, while elsewhere it was rising, the increase exceeding a tenth of an inch in East and West Bengal. On the 14th with the westerly advance of the depression, pressure rose very rapidly in Bengal generally, the rise at Jessore being 0·189″, and on the 15th the rise of pressure continued, the rise at the central and southern stations exceeding a tenth of an inch. It will thus be seen that the changes of pressure during the week have been unusually large and rapid, but that the changes have more or less neutralized each other.

The mean pressure for the week has been below the normal in all districts except Orissa, where a slight excess of about 0·02″ has been registered. The general defect over the province has equalled about 0·03″ to 0·04″, but at the stations affected by the second small storm the defect equals 0·05″ and 0·06″. In Assam there has been a general defect of 0·026″.

Temperature.—Owing to the heaviness of the rainfall the mean temperature for the week for the province has been 1·6° below the normal. The defects have been largest in Orissa, Chutia Nagpur, and South Behar, where they equal from 2° to 3°; while, on the other hand, in North Bengal, where the rainfall has been light, temperature has been normal. In Assam the mean temperature for the week has been 0·7° in excess of the normal.

Rainfall.—The falls during the week have been exceptionally heavy; thus on the 9th amounts of three inches and upwards were received at Chooadanga, Cox's Bazar, Satkanya, Kutubdia, Perozepore, Harrishpore, Naraingunge, Dewangunge (6·16 inches), and Nowadah. On the 10th falls of three inches and upwards were recorded at Cox's Bazar, Sherepore, Panchbibi, Bhowanigunge, Banka, and Colgong. On the 11th falls exceeding three inches were received at Cox's Bazar, Chandpore, Mohua, Sewan, Dehree, and Bhubooah, while on the 12th these heavy falls became more numerous. On this day falls in excess of four inches were recorded at Balasore, Saugor Island, Bussirhat, Burdwan, and Mohua, while falls of from two to four inches were received at thirty other stations. On the 13th Durbhunga reported 9·09 inches, Midnapore 8 inches, Raipore 5·95 inches, Baharagura 5·30 inches, Barrabhoom 5·30 inches, and Sheikpura 5·10 inches, while falls of from two to five inches were reported from thirty-seven stations. On the 14th only about ten stations received falls exceeding two inches, and on the 15th only one station (Kurseong) received more than two inches. At some stations for the week, therefore, the falls have been particularly heavy; Cox's Bazar has thus received in the seven days 17·98 inches, Midnapore 13·50 inches, Durbhunga 11·70 inches, and several stations more than ten inches; while no less than 38 stations in the province have received more than seven inches in the week, or an average of more than one inch of rain a day.

The average rainfall in South-West Bengal has equalled nearly five and-a-half inches, or about twice the normal; the falls in Orissa, in South Behar, and Chutia Nagpur have averaged about four and-a-half inches, or about 70 per cent. in excess of the normal. In East Bengal the fall has also been about four and-a-half inches, or about 20 per cent. in excess, and in North Behar the fall has averaged four inches, or about 60 per cent. in excess. The only district receiving a defective fall has been North Bengal, which has only averaged two inches, or about two-thirds of the usual amount. In the case of North Bengal, however, though the rainfall has been very considerably in defect, the number of rainy days has been almost equal to the normal, while in all the other divisions the number of rainy days in the week has been largely in excess of the usual number.

In North Bengal the districts which have received the most largely defective rainfall are Maldah, Rungpore, and Julpigoree, but the other districts have received more normal falls. In the other divisions, though the falls have been usually rather largely in excess of the normal, the Moorshedabad and Chittagong Hill Tracts districts have received rather defective falls.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 15th of August 1891 :—

AUSTRALIA—GREAT SANDY STRAIT.

Alteration in position of leading lights for Stewart island cutting.

THE Port Master, Brisbane, has given notice (No. 22 of 1891) that on and after 23rd July two white lights for leading through Stewart island cutting will be exhibited from triangular beacons on Stewart island to the southward of the cutting; and the lights (red and white) hitherto shown from beacons north of the cutting will be discontinued.

Directions.—Vessels from the southward will proceed with the Fig-tree lights in line until the lower light of the lead on Stewart island opens out as a bright light, when they should haul up quickly and steer for it, passing it at a distance of 100 feet and gradually bringing the two white lights in line astern. Keep them in line until the Moonboom island lights are in line, when proceed as usual. By following these directions a vessel will have a depth of 7 feet at low-water springs.

JAVA SEA—ARENDS ISLAND.

Rock westward of Arends island replaced on charts.

THE British Admiralty has given notice, (No. 299 of 1891), that on a review of the evidence in connection with the existence of a rock about ten miles west of Arends island, Java sea, which was removed from the Admiralty charts 19 years ago in consequence of an unsuccessful search, it has been decided to replace it in its former position, as given by an American barque, in approximately lat. 5° 4′ S., long 114° 26′ E.

Though this position may be much in error, the weight of evidence seems in favour of a rock somewhere westward of the island.

AUSTRALIA, EAST COAST—INNER ROUTE.

Shoal north of Lizard island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice, (No. 302 of 1891), of the existence of a shoal, with about 10 feet over it at low-water spring tides, lying with the north-west extreme of Lizard island bearing south, distant about 5½ miles

Approximate position: lat. 14° 33′ S., long. 145° 29¾′ E.

NOTE.—The position of this shoal cannot be considered accurate, but it is stated that the western extremes of North and South Direction islands in line lead eastward of it.

Vessels using the One-and-a-half mile opening should therefore haul to the eastward to this line when in the vicinity of the shoal, as the line given in the charts pointing out the opening, viz., South Direction Island half open west of North Direction Island, passes very near it. The reef forming the east side of One-and-a-half mile opening is to be named Hicks reef.

A new chart, Hope islands to Turtle group, No. 2923, on which this shoal is shown, will shortly be published.

Reef westward of the island.

THE British Admiralty has given notice, (No. 311 of 1891), of the existence of a reef westward of Condillac island and in the tract of vessels proceeding from Roebuck bay or Derby to Wyndham or port Darwin:—

This reef (Jamieson reef), originally reported by the Master of the steam-vessel Otway, is composed of coral, 2¼ miles long north and south, and one mile in breadth. The depths over the greater part of it vary from 12 to 24 feet, except at about three-quarters of a mile from the north end, where a small part dries 5 feet at low-water springs. THE British Admiralty has given notice, (No. 312 of 1891), that a light is exhibited from a structure erected on the north-west side of Observatory island, westward of Leu kung tau, Wei hai wei harbour:—

Observatory island light is a fixed light, showing red between the north extreme of Leu kung tau and the bearing S. 46° W.; white between S. 46° W. and S. 29° W.; and red between S. 29° W., through south, and N. 23° W. It is elevated 61 feet above the sea, and in clear weather the white light should be visible from a distance of 6 miles, and the red light 4 miles.

The illuminating apparatus is dioptric, or by lenses, of the sixth order.

The light is shown from an iron framework structure, painted white.

Approximate position, lat. 37° 30′ 25″ N., long. 122° 10′ 25″ E.

Non-existence of rocks between Shala and Kau island.

Abstract of the Proceedings of the Council of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, assembled for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations under the provisions of the Act of Parliament 24 and 25 Vic., Cap. 67.

THE Council met at the Council Chamber on Wednesday, the 5th August, 1891.

Present:

The HON'BLE SIR CHARLES ALFRED ELLIOTT, K.C.S.I., Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, presiding.

The HON'BLE SIR ALFRED CROFT, K.C.I.E.

The HON'BLE DR. MAHENDRA LAL SIRCAR, C.I.E.

The HON'BLE DR. RASH BEHARI GHOSE.

The HON'BLE A. H. WALLIS.

The HON'BLE MAHARAJAH SIR HARENDRA KISHORE SING BAHADUR, K.C.I.E.

HACKNEY-CARRIAGES AND PALANQUINS ACTS, 1866 AND 1878, AMENDMENT BILL.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"We have met at an extraordinary meeting of the Council in order to effect the passing of the Hackney-carriage Bill. The object of calling an extraordinary meeting of the Council to-day has been that, if we can pass the Bill to-day and obtain the sanction of the Government of India to it, there will be plenty of time before the commencement of the Act to enable all persons concerned in the hackney-carriage trade to make their arrangements to meet the provisions of the amended Act before the date when it comes into force, namely, the 1st October. It seemed to me that, if the passing of this Bill was put off till the end of August, and if there should be any delay in correspondence with the Government of India, the time might have run so close that the proprietors of hackney-carriages and other persons interested in the provisions of this Bill might easily have complained that sufficient opportunity had not been given them to consider and make arrangements to meet the changes which have been introduced. Since the Select Committee sat and made several amendments in the Bill, the Municipal Commissioners have held a meeting and have proposed some further slight amendments. Many of these seem to me to be desirable and certainly worthy of our consideration. Bearing in mind that it was originally at the request of the Commissioners that this amendment of the law has been undertaken, I think we should not be acting with sufficient respect and courtesy to the Commissioners if we declined to take full notice of the amendments which they have proposed, even though they had been submitted at so late a date; and I think that no injury will be done and the danger of precipitate legislation will be avoided if we take these amendments into consideration upon the present occasion. I therefore desire to announce that the standing rules of the Council will be suspended in order to take the amendments into consideration, and I declare the Council rules suspended."

The Hon'ble Mr. Wallis presented the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Hackney-carriages and Palanquins in Calcutta.

He said:—"It will be remembered that this Bill was originally placed in charge of the Hon'ble Mr. Cotton, but on his departure for England the Hon'ble the President was pleased to transfer its conduct to my hands. My hon'ble colleague, in moving for leave to introduce this Bill, dwelt at some length on the history of legislation in Calcutta relating to hackney-carriages, and explained on what grounds it had become necessary to alter the existing law. The chief reasons put forward were the very unsatisfactory working of the Hackney-carriage Department, the extreme inefficiency of the tecca gharries in the city, and the disreputable state in which they are permitted to ply for hire. The Municipal Commissioners had given special attention to the subject, and in October of last year appointed a Committee to enquire into the working of the Department, and to suggest such alterations and amendments in the Act which, in their opinion, would be likely to lead to a more satisfactory state of affairs.

"The report submitted recommended that legislation should be resorted to, and that greater powers should be given to the Commissioners in order to enable them to carry out the necessary improvements in the hackney-carriage service. The draft Bill, together with the opinions expressed by the several Associations and officials, have been very carefully considered by the Select Committee, and the changes and alterations made have been embodied in the Committee's Report which has been in the hands of hon'ble members for some time past. It will not be necessary, Sir, for me to take up much of your time, as the Hon'ble Mr. Cotton in his introductory speech explained to a very great extent the proposed changes in the law; but there are a few points to which I must allude, and others to which, perhaps, it would be as well to refer again. One of the most material changes proposed by the Select Committee is in section 60 of the Bill, which provides for the employment and final distribution of the fees and fines levied under the Act. The Committee regret that they were unable to agree with the proposal made by the Hon'ble Mr. Cotton to omit from the Bill the provision that all penalties and fees should be disposed of in such manner as the Government of Bengal shall direct. The effect of such omission would be that only the fees could be credited to the Corporation, that is to say, all fees payable on registration of carriages, the fees payable on drivers' licenses, as well as any fees which shall be levied under the Act on account of transfer of registration or on copies furnished, but all penalties and fines imposed in a Magistrate's Court would be credited to Government. Such a course would not justify the division of the fees between the municipalities concerned, and as it is intended that the municipalities are to have both administrative and financial responsibilities, this section provides that all fees and fines shall first be credited to a fund to be called the 'Hackney-carriage Fund,' which is to be employed in carrying out the purposes of the Act, and in the event of one or more municipalities being included in Calcutta by virtue of a notification published under section 4, then such fund shall yearly be divided between the Calcutta and such other municipality or municipalities as the Local Government may determine.

"In this connection, in section 15, clause (4), the Select Committee by an oversight omitted to alter the words 'shall be forfeited to Government' to 'shall be credited to the Hackney-carriage Fund,' and I now ask that the alteration may be permitted.

"The section in the draft Bill which was numbered 60 did not appear to the Committee to be sufficiently comprehensive. In re-casting this section, which is now No. 61, the Committee have extended its scope, by which the Local Government may, whenever the Act shall be extended to any other town or place, appoint persons, either by name or official designation, to carry out the duties imposed, and exercise the powers conferred by the Act on the Commissioners and the Chairman of the Commissioners. In clause (2) of this section provision has been made for the modification of certain other sections when the Act is extended beyond the local limits of Calcutta, which will enable the Local Government, by notification in the Calcutta Gazette, to provide that the language commonly used in such extended districts shall be substituted for those provided in the Act. This is a very necessary provision, as it is most desirable that the plate affixed to a conveyance specifying the fare according to distance and time which may be legally demanded and taken from the hirer shall be in the language most in use in each district.

"Under the existing law the Registering Officer is appointed by the Government, and every act, matter or thing done by that officer (under or by virtue of the Act) is subject to the order, disposition and control of the Commissioner of Police. In the Bill which is now under the consideration of this Council, it has been provided that this officer shall be appointed by the Commissioners, and that the working of the Act shall be entirely under the control of the Corporation of Calcutta. Full powers have been given enabling the Commissioners (subject to the approval of Government) to frame bye-laws and rules which may be legally enforced. This will place the Commissioners in a position to deal summarily with all questions which may arise in connection with the working of the Act, and will, no doubt, lead to the much needed reforms.

"Section 5, as originally drafted, placed the Registering Officer under the control of the Commissioners. This the Committee considered inadvisable, and have therefore altered the section so as to place him under the immediate control of the Chairman of the Corporation. This for obvious reasons must be preferable; for if the Act is to lead to the better administration of the Hackney-carriage Department, the Chairman's orders should be final. It is also desirable that the status of this officer should be very materially improved, and the Committee have therefore, under clause (3) of the same section, made his appointment and removal subject to section 41 of the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act of 1888.

"In section 23, the word 'knowingly' has been omitted, as it has been found difficult in practice to prove to the satisfaction of the presiding Magistrate that the owner knowingly permitted an unlicensed person to act as driver. The fact of a person acting as driver being unlicensed should suffice for the conviction of the owner. In like manner the Commissioners have omitted in section 27, clause (2), the words 'wilfully' and 'fraudulently;' for a driver who neglects to deliver up, uses or wears an expired ticket, should be convicted without the necessity of proving that he did so wilfully or fraudulently. It will have been noticed that the tendency of the Bill is to reduce the penalties, especially in the case of drivers. Under the existing Act it was found that the alternative penalty in default of payment of fine was in some instances excessive; these have been reduced in the present Bill, but with regard to section 17 the Committee were of opinion that the fine of Rs. 10 for the offence of plying for hire without having a proper plate affixed is wholly inadequate, and would not act as a deterrent. The fine has therefore been raised to Rs. 50, the amount provided under the existing Act.

"In the first schedule of the Bill the Committee deemed it advisable to somewhat enhance the daily fare for a carriage of the second class to Rs. 3-8, and to allow the old rule to stand as regards the fare of Rs. 2 for five hours. Under the existing Act the fare for this class, if taken at 12 annas for the first hour and 6 annas for every other hour or part of an hour beyond the first hour, the sum payable for eight hours amounted to Rs. 3-6, but for a whole day of nine hours to only Rs. 3. This was certainly an anomally, and by the adoption of the present proposal the fare for eight hours would be the same, Rs. 3-6, and for nine hours Rs. 3-8.

"Should the Bill, as amended, be accepted by the Council and passed into law, the Municipal Commissioners will have its entire working in their hands. They will be empowered to frame bye-laws and rules which can be legally enforced, and there is no doubt that full advantage will be taken of these powers in order to ensure a better description of carriages and horses being used, and a more reliable class of men being employed as drivers. The claims of owners and drivers have been carefully considered. The fares have been slightly increased, and the doubt which existed as to the sum which could be legally demanded after the first five hours removed, while the penalties in several instances have been considerably reduced. The whole Bill has been framed with the object that Calcutta should be better served in this direction, that due protection be given to both owners and hirers, and the result, it is hoped, will be a very material improvement in the hackney-carriage service."

The Hon'ble Mr. Wallis also moved that the Report of the Select Committee be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill, and that the clauses of the Bill be considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The Motions were put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Wallis also moved that in clause (4) of section 15, the words 'shall be forfeited to the Government' be omitted, and the words 'shall be credited to the Hackney-carriage Fund' be substituted for them.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble the President said:—"I have to move in clause (2) of the same section an amendment which has been proposed by the Commissioners at their recent meeting. They desire to appoint one or two or more Inspecting Officers whose business it shall be to watch over the carrying out of the Act, and to investigate the extent to which any infringement of its provisions takes place. The provision before us gives power only to a Police Officer to seize and remove to a police-station any carriage which has not been duly registered. The Commissioners urge that if they have paid officers whose business it is to go about and see that no carriage is plying for hire which has not been duly registered and does not carry its plate, those officers should have power at once to arrest the driver and to carry the carriage to the nearest police-station, instead of waiting till they can find a police constable whom they can induce to arrest the driver, while in the meantime the driver might drive off as fast as he can. I understand this point was considered in Select Committee, and was not adopted, and it is therefore with considerable hesitation that I ask the Council to consider it. But I do so because I am under the impression that there has probably been a misunderstanding, that they thought this power would probably be given to irresponsible officers drawing inconsiderable salaries. But this is not the case, as the proposal is to appoint officers of standing and position to this work. A parallel case is to be found in the working of the Act for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Under the law no person but a police officer can arrest a person committing an offence under that Act. We have a most useful and philanthropic society which has its agents scattered over the whole town, and constantly taking notice of acts of cruelty and enforcing the law against persons who commit offences under that Act; and in order that they might act with better effect, these emissaries of the society have been vested with the powers of police constables to enable them to make arrests. It is admitted that the power thus conferred has not done any harm, but, on the contrary, has distinctly worked good. The objection, I understand, has been raised that if a driver sees a person looking like a private person coming to arrest him, he might conceive that he is not invested with any authority, and a disturbance might arise consequent on the driver exercising the right which he might believe himself to possess, viz., the right of private defence. I have therefore thought it best to move the amendment proposed by the Municipal Commissioners in the following form, namely, to insert after 'Police officer' in clause (2) of section 15, the following words:—'or any person duly authorized in that behalf by the Commissioners, and wearing a distinctive badge to indicate his official capacity.' I trust that this amendment will commend itself to the Council. I trust they will think that by this provision any danger likely to arise in consequence of what may be thought to be unlawful interference will be avoided."

The Hon'ble Sir Alfred Croft said:—"I am glad that Your Honour has moved this amendment because it falls in with a suggestion that I intended to make with regard to the appointment of Inspectors of hackney-carriages. Bye-laws may be framed with any degree of detail and stringency, but unless officers are appointed with the express object of seeing their provisions carried out, they will prove inoperative. I believe that many of the complaints as to the state of hackney-carriages are due to the fact that the carriages are repaired and painted and patched up for the day of registration; they pass in review so as to make a fair show before the Registering Officer, but the repairs are so badly done that they soon fall to pieces, and so remain till the next registration-day when they are patched up again. It is stated that the Registering Officer has to pass in review some fifty carriages in a morning, and therefore his inspection cannot but be very superficial. A second inspection and registration at the end of six months has been suggested, but even that is not sufficient What seems to me to be wanted is to appoint a whole-time officer—in fact more than one whole-time officer, at any rate one for the north and one for the south of the town—to go about the hackney-carriage stables; to inspect the carriages and examine their springs and general state; to look at the horses and ponies; to examine the harness and see that it is strong and serviceable; to see that the drivers are capable men and decently dressed; and to warn them against an offence frequently committed, especially in Chowringhee, namely, that of racing their carriages against each other at full gallop, to the imminent danger of passers by and of other carriages. Unless the Municipality should prefer to appoint independent Inspectors, the officers whose appointment this amendment contemplates might well be entrusted with such duties. The Inspectors should be subordinate to the Chairman of the Corporation, and should report directly to him. On these grounds I have much pleasure in supporting this amendment."

The Hon'ble Dr. Rash Behari Ghose said:—"As a member of the Select Committee, I am bound to say that if the case had been properly represented to us, we should certainly have felt considerable hesitation in rejecting the suggestion made by the Municipal Commissioners. Now, however, that we are assured that only officers of a superior grade will be deputed to perform the duties prescribed in section 15, and that those officers will have to wear a distinctive badge, the reasons which impelled the members of the Select Committee to reject the amendment no longer hold good, and I am quite prepared to support it."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble the President moved that in section 21, clause (2)(b), line one, the words 'and father's name' be inserted after 'name.' He said:—"This was suggested by the Commissioners in order to avoid the possibility of substituting one person of the same name for the person to whom the license to act as driver has been granted. I do not suppose there will be any objection to this amendment."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"The next amendment which I have to move was not proposed by the Commissioners, but has occurred to myself in examining the project of law before us. It is in section 34 which runs as follows:—'The driver of every hackney-carriage shall carry in or upon such carriage a reasonable quantity of luggage for every person hiring such carriage without any additional charge.' It seems to me that the words 'reasonable quantity' is hardly such a term of precision which should be put into a legislative enactment, and that it might unnecessarily tend to disputes and disagreements between the driver and the hirer. It may be urged that this section has only been copied from the former Act; that it has been in force ever since Act V of 1866 was passed; and that no difficulty has been found to arise. But I wish to point out that one of the main, if not quite the main, object why we are now legislating is the object of humanity, to relieve the animals which draw hackney-carriages from that strain to their physical endurance to which we now find them subject. We have provided with great care that a carriage may carry only a certain number of persons; that the Registering Officer should see that the carriage must be of sufficient strength and the horses of sufficient size to draw four persons of average weight. But if we allow any amount of luggage to be put on the roof in addition to having four persons inside, we may possibly be putting such a strain on the poor animals as they might not be able to bear. Therefore, I propose, in substitution of the vague expression 'reasonable quantity of luggage' to insert the words 'a quantity of luggage not exceeding two maunds.' If we fix the quantity at two maunds, we shall know how much the carriage may be expected to carry and the animals to draw. I trust a restriction of this kind will commend itself to you as a move in the direction of a humane regard for the condition of the animals which has induced the Council to consider the Bill now before us."

The HON'BLE SHAHZADA MAHOMMED FURROKH SHAH seconded the motion.

The HON'BLE DR. MAHENDRA LAL SIRCAR said:—"I wish to put before the Council the case of only one person hiring a carriage and he alone travelling in it. In such a case the conveyance would be lightened to the extent of the weight of three persons, and, in my humble opinion, it would be unfair to limit the weight of luggage to two maunds. I would, therefore, suggest that in lieu of the three other persons which the carriage is licensed to convey, the driver should be bound, if required, to carry three additional maunds of luggage, one maund in lieu of each such person It will be a hardship if a person hires a carriage to convey him to a railway station if he is not allowed to carry with him on the carriage the full amount of luggage he has, provided it does not exceed five maunds, but where four persons travel in the carriage he agrees with the Hon'ble the President that the limit of two maunds of luggage is reasonable."

The HON'BLE SIR ALFRED CROFT believed there was some provision of the kind in the London Hackney-carriage Act.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"The London rule, I think, is that for every outside parcel 2*d.* extra is paid. It seems to me that the suggestion made by the Hon'ble Dr. Mahendra Lal Sircar is a reasonable one, and I accept it, and therefore now move the substitution of the words—'a quantity of luggage not exceeding two maunds, together with one additional maund for every person below four carried in the carriage.'"

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE DR. MAHENDRA LAL SIRCAR moved that in section 39, clause (2), line 6, the word 'or' be omitted, and the words 'and in default of payment' be substituted.

He said:—"As the section now stands the Magistrate might either sentence the offender to a fine or to imprisonment. I think the imprisonment should only be imposed in default of payment of the fine. It would be very hard if a person may be sentenced to imprisonment for non-payment of the fare due by him to a hackney-carriage driver."

The Hon'ble Sir Alfred Croft in seconding the motion said :—"It seems to me difficult to imagine a case of evasion of payment of fare which is so bad as to demand a sentence of imprisonment, and that the imposition of a fine of Rs. 50 would meet the exigencies of the case."

The Hon'ble Dr. Rash Behari Ghose said :—"I am sorry I cannot support this amendment. If I remember rightly, the question was discussed in the Select Committee, when we thought there might be special cases in which a Magistrate would be justified in awarding imprisonment, not necessarily for one month which is the maximum, but for such period as the Magistrate might think the man deserves. A man who evades payment of the fare, or, in other words, attempts to cheat the driver, is certainly not deserving of much pity. And I think we may trust the Magistrate who would have to deal with the case to exercise his discretion in a proper manner. If we leave out the imprisonment altogether, in a very bad case of evasion, the offender will get off very lightly. I therefore think this provision ought to stand as it is in the Bill."

The Hon'ble Mr. Wallis said:—"I think the section as it is now worded should be allowed to stand as has been mentioned by the hon'ble member who spoke last; this question was considered in Select Committee. The very words proposed by the hon'ble mover of the amendment were recommended by the Central Mahommedan Association, but their recommendation was duly considered, and it was decided that a person who actually evades payment of fare commits an offence which rightly subjects him (at the discretion of the Magistrate) to the penalty of imprisonment."

The Hon'ble Shahzada Mahommed Furrokh Shah said:—"If I remember rightly, a man who evades payment of a railway fare is only subject to the penalty of fine."

The Hon'ble the President said:—"I find, on referring to the Railways Act, that a person who travels without a ticket, or attempts to cheat by not paying the full amount of fare, is liable to a fine and not to imprisonment. But before I put the question to the vote, I should like to point out in the first place that this provision stands in the Bill as it exists in the present Act. The alternative given to the Magistrate of imposing imprisonment instead of fine, and not only in default of payment of fine, has been in force since 1866; and this fact is an argument for not changing the law unless anyone happens to know of any grievous injury having been inflicted under the authority of the present law, which shows that there is need for its amendment. It seems to me that there are cases in which the Magistrate might be bound to inflict imprisonment and not fine. I am told that it not unfrequently happens that sailors take a hackney-carriage, and after using it try to defraud the driver and escape by going on board their ship. In a case of that kind a sentence of fine would generally be a brutum fulmen. It would have no effect; and the imprisonment which would be imposed in default of payment of the fine would be simple imprisonment, which would be rather in favour of the sailor than a punishment to him, because we know that according to the old saying life on shipboard is imprisonment with the chance of being drowned, and simple imprisonment is imprisonment without the chance of being drowned. To him being detained from his ship by being sent to a prison would not be such a severe punishment, as it would be to any ordinary person. The fact that the Select Committee considered this question and decided that the alternative punishment of imprisonment should remain should of course weigh with the Council to a considerable extent, and unless any strong grounds are put forward to invalidate reasons which led the Select Committee to the conclusion to which they came, we are bound to pay to it the greatest respect. We must also bear in mind that two of the members of the Select Committee are absent, and therefore the voting power of the Select Committee is weaker than usual."

The Hon'ble Maharajah Sir Harendra Kishore Sing Bahadur observed that, in his opinion, the penalty to be inflicted for the offence here provided for, whether it should be fine or imprisonment, should be left to the discretion of the Magistrate.

The Motion was then put to the vote and negatived.

The Hon'ble the President said:—"In section 42 a new provision has been adopted taken from the Madras Act III of 1879, under which, if a dispute arises between the hirer and the driver, the hirer may require the driver, or the driver may require the hirer, to proceed forthwith to the nearest Magistrate's Court, and the then sitting Magistrate shall hear and determine the suit in a summary way. The addition to the existing law is contained in the words 'and the driver may require the hirer' to go to the Magistrate's Court and settle the question off-hand. I think the hon'ble members must admit on consideration that very great inconvenience may result to the hirer from this innovation. My hon'ble friend Dr. Rash Behari Ghose, for instance, may be proceeding to the High Court, and if in case of a dispute arising between him and the driver he can be forthwith taken before a Magistrate, he may be put to great inconvenience, and his client, perhaps, may lose his case for want of the valuable services of his advocate; or a gentleman may be on his way to a railway station and may miss his train; and, lastly, there is the strongest case of all, the case put by a memorial presented by my friend Nawab Abdool Latif of a purdah nashin lady whose appearance in court would be impossible. I therefore propose that these words which have been imported from the Madras Act be omitted, and that we should fall back on the terms of the original Act with one slight exception to provide for cases in which the Magistrate being engaged in some important case is not able to hear and determine the dispute, or when no Magistrate may be sitting at the time. The section which I propose to substitute for section 42 of the Bill will run thus:—

'In case of any dispute arising between the hirer and the driver of any registered hackney-carriage, the hirer may, if any Magistrate be then sitting, require the driver to drive to the Court of such Magistrate, or if any Magistrate be not then sitting to the Registering Officer; and if any driver shall refuse to obey such requisition, it shall be lawful for the hirer to give such driver into the custody of the nearest Police Officer. Such Police Officer shall thereupon take the driver and the hirer, together with the carriages and horses, to such Court or Registering Officer, and the then sitting Magistrate or Registering Officer shall, in either of the cases aforesaid, hear and determine the dispute in a summary way.'

The Hon'ble Dr. Rash Behari Ghose said:—"I have much pleasure in seconding this amendment. I pointed out to my colleagues in the Select Committee that this provision was liable to be abused by the drivers of hackney-carriages. In the case put by Nawab Abdool Latif, the abuse would be very great. But I yielded rather too readily perhaps to the suggestion of my colleagues that the section would practically be a dead letter, and that a corresponding provision was to be found not only in the Madras Act, which had led to no harm, but, if I am not mistaken, in the English Act also. I am glad that this amendment has now been moved."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble the President said:—"The next amendment which I have to move is a very small one in section 51, clause (2) which provides that 'all the provisions of this Act in any way relating to the taking out, granting, renewing or producing the licenses, or to the issuing, granting, wearing or using tickets granted to drivers of hackney-carriages, shall be applicable in like manner to the bearers of palanquins.' It is proposed to insert the words 'or using' after 'producing,' in order to meet the case of a palanquin-bearer transferring his license to anybody else. I do not think any objection can be taken to the amendment."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble the President moved that in section 53, clause (1) (b), the words 'dimensions of such carriages' be inserted after 'hackney-carriages.'

He said:—"This seems to me a very useful provision suggested by the Commissioners. It will enable the Registering Officer to see that hackney-carriages are not made of a size which is too heavy for the animals drawing them, and will tend to the same humanitarian direction which we are all agreed upon."

The Hon'ble Dr. Mahendra Lal Sircar seconded the motion.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble the President moved that in section 56, the following words be substituted for the whole of the proviso from line 8 to the end:—'The omission to register any hackney-carriage or palanquin or to take out a license, shall be deemed to be a continuing offence.'

He said:—"It is the form of words proposed by our legal adviser as better suited to express the intention of the section."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Dr. Mahendra Lal Sircar moved that in the first schedule, Rs. 3, the present rate of hire for a second class carriage for a whole day consisting of 9 hours, be substituted for Rs. 3-8, the rate entered in the amended Bill.

He said:—"We have sufficient evidence, and we see it especially from the remarks made by Mr. Phelps at the last meeting of the Municipal Commissioners, that the owners of second class carriages gain ample profit from the present rates of hire. The rates have been enhanced in the Bill in order that the carriages might be improved, but as has already been pointed out the disreputable condition of the hackney-carriages in Calcutta is not due to the smallness of the fares that are paid, but to the want of proper supervision and inspection. With the proper supervision and inspection to be provided by this Bill, we should have better carriages, and I do not see any necessity for enhancing the rates of fare for second class carriages. To enhance the rates will be a great hardship to the middle class people, who are the hirers of these carriages. Besides there is an anomaly in the schedule of rates for second class carriages which will be removed by the amendments which I now propose. The anomaly is that for the first hour the fare is 12 annas, and for every hour or part of an hour after the first the fare is 6 annas, and for half a day of 5 hours the fare is Rs. 2; so that the fare for four hours is Re. 1-14, whilst for the fifth hour it is only 2 annas, and then for every subsequent hour the fare is 6 annas. This anomaly will be removed by the amendment I propose to substitute, Rs. 3 for Rs. 3-8. If that amendment is carried, I am prepared to move other amendments with reference to the rates for the rates for second and third class carriages."

The Hon'ble the President said:—"As nobody seconds this amendment, I shall take it that the sense of the Council is against it."

The Hon'ble Sir Alfred Croft said:—"The reason why I do not second the amendment is that if the Corporation carry out the suggestion I made for the appointment of Inspectors, it will keep the carriages more up to the mark, and there will consequently be more expense to the owners, and they will be so far recompensed by the slight increase of rates proposed in the schedule."

The Hon'ble Dr. Mahendra Lal Sircar said:—"The anomaly is that for four hours the fare will be Re. 1-14, and for five hours Rs. 2, so that for 2 annas the hirer can keep the carriage a whole hour longer; whereas for each of the succeeding hours he will get 6 annas. This is an anomaly which would be removed if my amendment had been carried. I now move that the charge for a second class carriage for the first hour be 12 annas, for the second and third hours, or any part thereof, 6 annas, and for every hour beyond the third hour the charge shall be 4 annas; and then we shall do away with the necessity for fixing the rates for half a day of 5 hours, and a whole day of 9 hours. These rates will themselves amount to Rs. 2 for 5 hours and Rs. 3 for 9 hours. Similarly, in the case of third class carriages, I shall propose that the rate for the first hour shall be 6 annas, 4 annas each for the second and third hour, and 3 annas for each hour after the third hour; and these rates will amount to Rs. 2 for 9 hours. These amendments have the recommendation of simplicity as well as of logical consistency. They are not unfair to the owner, and they are very fair to the hirer. It will certainly be a hardship to the middle and poorer classes if the rates proposed in the Bill are retained. My present motion is confined to the rates for second class carriages which I have specified."

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"As the motion is not seconded, I take it that the sense of the Council is against this amendment too."

The HON'BLE DR. MAHENDRA LAL SIRCAR then moved that for third class carriages the following rates be entered in lieu of the rates now in the schedule, namely, that the rate for the first hour shall be 6 annas, for the second and third hours or part thereof 4 annas, and for every subsequent hour or part of an hour 3 annas.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT seconded this amendment. He said:—"It is one which I independently intended to bring forward, but I am glad the hon'ble member has forestalled me. The Municipal Commissioners have discussed this subject very fully at their recent meeting, and they proposed the alteration now before the Council. Mr. Phelps, one of the Commissioners, who originally brought forward the proposal to amend the Hackney-carriage Act, suggested this very amendment, and after a long debate it was carried. We want to justify the imposition of the demand to be made upon the owners of third class carriages for the improvement of the condition of their carriages and ponies by making their work a little more remunerative. On the other hand, we are anxious not to make the rates of hire oppressive especially on the poorest and lowest classes. It is these persons whom we are specially bound to protect. The well-to-do middle classes who chiefly hire second class carriages can defend themselves, but those who use third class carriages we, in our position as representing the Government, are above all people bound to consider. The result of the amendment before the Council will be that for each of the second and third hours of hiring one anna more will have to be paid than at present, and the rates would not be different in other respects. But this will justify the Commissioners in demanding that the owners shall put themselves to larger expenditure to put their carriages in good order, and I trust the rates of fare will not be considered too oppressive on the poorer classes in whose behalf the Select Committee, and I believe the Municipal Commissioners also, received many representations, and I hope this amendment will be considered favourably by the Council."

The HON'BLE DR. RASH BEHARI GHOSE said:—"I also think that this amendment should be carried for the reasons which have been given by my colleagues. It will be a decided improvement, and, speaking for myself, I am obliged to the Municipal Commissioners for pointing out the mistake which the members of the Select Committee had made."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"Another suggestion has been made by the Municipal Commissioners to the effect that the rates of fare for all classes of carriages after the ninth hour should be specified in the law, because the decision of the Magistrates in this respect have varied, and there is no certain rule for guidance, either of the public or of drivers. I therefore move that another column be added to the schedule providing that for every hour, or part of an hour, after the ninth hour, the rates of fare shall be for first class carriages 8 annas, for second class carriages 6 annas and for third class carriages 3 annas. This will be the best way to simplify and settle a matter in respect of which there is now considerable doubt."

MR. WALLIS seconded the motion.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble the President said:—"I have also a suggestion to make with regard to the foot-note to this schedule. According to the foot-note as it now stands in the Bill, the Council will observe that the fares are to be paid, either by distance or by time, at the option of the hirer, to be expressed at the commencement of the hiring; if not otherwise expressed, the fare to be paid according to time. I think it is desirable that we should also provide that the hirer shall not have the benefit of the rate for 5 hours or for 9 hours where it is a reduction upon the rates per hour, unless at the time of the hiring he expresses his intention to engage the carriage for that specific time, that is, that he should state at the first whether he takes the carriage for 5 hours or for 9 hours. I therefore move that the following words be substituted for the present foot-note to the schedule:—

'The above fares to be paid according to time, unless at the commencement of the hiring the hirer expresses his intention of paying according to distance. In the case of a second class carriage the hirer cannot avail himself of the half day or whole day rate unless at the time of hiring he engages the carriage for the half day or whole day as the case may be.'

The Hon'ble Maharajah Sir Harendra Kishore Singh Bahadur seconded the motion.

The Hon'ble Sir Alfred Croft said:—"I feel some slight difficulty in voting for this amendment. Suppose the hirer has a lot of shopping to do, and does not know whether he will require the carriage for 3, 4, or 5 hours; the driver is quite willing to be hired on these indefinite terms; if it so happens that at the end of 3 or 4 hours the hirer does not want to discharge the carriage, but wishes to keep it till the completion of 5 hours, why should he lose the advantage of the 5 hours' rate merely because he did not make a specific contract with the driver beforehand? I am supposing the case where there is a reduction of charge for the fifth hour."

The Hon'ble Mr. Wallis said:—"I think that this proposal will, to a great extent, remove the anomaly referred to by the Hon'ble Dr. Mahendra Lal Sircar, namely, that the charge for 4 hours is Re. 1-14, and for 5 hours only 2 annas more. If a contract is entered into previously to the hiring, the anomaly will, to a great extent, be removed."

The Hon'ble the President said:—"The practical effect of the amendment is that the advantage to be gained by the hiring of a second class carriage for half a day of 5 hours will be the payment of 2 annas for the fifth hour, instead of 6 annas. My hon'ble friend thinks it will not be generally practicable for the hirer to say beforehand that he will take the carriage for 5 hours, and that he does not see why the hirer should not get the advantage of the lapse of time that may occur. But I think what has fallen from the Hon'ble Mr. Wallis shows that the effect of the present amendment will be that the driver cannot get rid of the hirer at the end of the fourth hour, and therefore he will be rather an unwilling party to the contract. It seems to me only right that the contract should be made at the commencement of the hiring and that the proposal will be equally fair to the hirer and to the driver."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Wallis moved that the Bill, as now amended, be passed.

The Motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble the President said:—"In declaring the Bill to be passed into law subject to the approval which we hope to get, and which I have little doubt we will get, of the Government of India, I would only say two words before we break up: one, to express my thanks, on behalf of the Government of Bengal, to the Hon'ble Mr. Wallis for the excellent and practical way in which he has conducted the business of preparing the Bill for the Council; and the other is a word addressed to the Municipal Commissioners. I trust that they will bear in mind what has fallen from the Hon'ble Sir Alfred Croft in regard to his recommendation that they should appoint at least two capable Inspectors to ensure the satisfactory carrying out of the provisions of this Act—Inspectors who will see not only that these hackney-carriages are more decent and comfortable, that the drivers are better dressed and better able to drive with less danger to human life, but above all that there should be more humanity felt for the animals which are driven in these carriages, and that the reproach thrown upon us—and I think very justly thrown upon us—that there is no town in the whole of the British Empire in which the hackney-carriages and animals are such a disgrace to civilization as they are in Calcutta will be removed. Neither in Bombay nor in Madras nor in Karachi, nor even in a little town like Hyderabad in Sind, can you find anything comparable to the disgraceful state of the carriages or the miserable condition of the ponies which are driven in third class carriages in Calcutta, and I hope sincerely that the effect of the passing of this Act will be to prevent the recurrence of any such sights as those which inflict the eyes and the hearts of philanthropic people at the present day.

"There is a new clause in the Act which authorizes the Municipality to pass bye-laws which shall come into force after the confirmation of the Government. I have considered very carefully whether this would be a sufficient protection to the public. I was very much inclined to propose that more power should be given to the Government, so that they should be able not only to confirm the bye-laws, but if they found that the Commissioners did not pass bye-laws sufficient to meet the spirit of the Bill and the object of the Legislature, that the Government should have the power to take the initiative to draw up bye-laws or at least to modify and amend those framed by the Commissioners. The Bill as it now stands does not give that power. After careful consideration, and after discussing the subject with many gentlemen who were well able to advise me, I came to the conclusion that it was not desirable to propose any such amendment. I think we have reason to believe that we can trust the Municipal Commissioners to follow the spirit in which we have been acting, to follow the spirit which has been expressed by the public press and by many public Corporations, and the views which have led to the formation of the present Bill. I trust that in a very short time the Commissioners will draw up a set of bye-laws which will fully meet the spirit in which this law has been drawn up, and that they will appoint a suitable body of officers, capable and responsible, who will effectually see that the provisions of the law are carried out."

The Council adjourned sine die.

Explanation —.. , indicate that no rain has fallen. If the return for any day has not been received, the corresponding space is left blank. If any of the returns are wanting, the corresponding spaces in the total rainfall columns are left blank. With reference to the column of rainy days, the definition of a rainy day is when at least 0·1 inch of rain has fallen.

CALCUTTA, the 25th August 1891.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE WEEK ENDING SATURDAY, THE 22ND OF AUGUST 1891.

In the second half of the previous week a small depression or feeble cyclonic storm had formed over Central Bengal and had first advanced in a westerly and then in a north-westerly direction, and on the 15th, or the last day of that week, the storm centre was near Allahabad. On the 16th it was between Allahabad and Lucknow, but it had become more feeble on this date, and though feebly perceptible on the 17th, it ceased to exist as a well-defined depression. It gave heavy rain in its progress, but the monsoon current brought up in its rear was feeble. Conditions were therefore of ordinary monsoon character in Bengal on the 16th, but on this day the rainfall reported was only light and local except in Chutia Nagpur, where it was more general. Winds on the 16th, however showed a tendency for a westerly current to set in over Chutia Nagpur and parts of Orissa and Behar, and these winds commenced to drive back the easterly and south-easterly winds which had previously been blowing. This produced a considerable amount of interaction between the opposing wind systems and therefore of ascensional air-motion which had increased by the morning of the 17th, when the westerly current had reached as far as Central Bengal. On the 17th, therefore, much heavier and more general rain was reported, two stations received nearly five inches of rain and a good many received an inch and upwards. Conditions remained practically unaltered on the 18th, except that pressure had become comparatively low at Balasore and Saugor Island and again fairly general rain was received, though the falls were not so heavy as on the 17th On the 19th the comparatively low pressure still existed at Balasore and Saugor Island, and there was also slight indication of the commencement of a whirl over the extreme south-western parts of Bengal and probably the neighbouring parts of the north-west angle of the Bay. Winds, therefore, again became strongly easterly over almost the whole province; rainfall in Orissa and Behar and over parts of East and North Bengal became rather general and heavy, but the falls in South-West Bengal were lighter and more local. On the 20th a distinct but feeble low-pressure area had formed over the north-west angle of the Bay which was accompanied by a decided cyclonic circulation of winds, the centre of the circulation being apparently to the east of False Point. Again on the 20th Orissa reported fairly general but moderate rain, but in most other districts the falls were rather local. On the 21st the depression in the north-west angle of the Bay was a little more marked than it had been, but the position was practically unchanged, and again on the 22nd the feeble storm had became rather more marked, while the centre of the wind circulation was to the east-north-east of False Point and to the south of Saugor Island. The wind circulation on this day was very complete, and practically the wind system over the whole province was governed by the existence of the small storm, though the wind velocities in connection with it were light. Moderate general rain continued therefore to be received in Orissa and South-West Bengal on the 20th and 21st, but East and North Bengal, and to a considerable extent Chutia Nagpur and Behar, received little or no rain during this period owing to the indraught taking place towards the very feeble storm.

It will be seen, therefore, that the conditions during the earlier part of the week were more favourable for rainfall than they were during the last few days, but on the whole fairly good rain has been received during the week throughout the province.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been generally rather considerably above the normal, the usual excess ranging from 0·03″ to 0·04.″ The changes throughout the week have been generally small Pressure usually rose slowly on the 16th; it then fell moderately for the next two days and rose on the following two days; on the 21st and 22nd pressure fell, the largest falls, though they were still small, taking place in the north-west angle of the Bay, where, as previously stated, a distinct barometric depression existed on these dates.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature throughout the week have been of no importance, and the mean temperature of the whole province for the week has not varied from the normal by so much as a tenth of a degree. On the whole, the mean temperature has been very slightly in defect, but this has been mainly owing to the fact that in North Bengal there has been a defect of 1° and in Behar a defect of about half this amount, while, on the other hand, slight excess temperatures have been recorded in Chutia Nagpur, Orissa, and South-West Bengal. In East Bengal temperature has been practically normal, while in Assam a defect of 1·1° has been registered.

Rainfall.—Has been in slight excess of the normal in North Bengal, where previously rather defective falls have been registered. In Orissa, East Bengal, and Behar, the falls have been in slight or moderate defect, but in South-West Bengal and Chutia Nagpur the falls have been in rather large defect. The general falls in all divisions except South-West Bengal and North Behar have averaged between 2 and 3 inches, but in North Behar the fall has been only 1·90 inches and in South-West Bengal slightly less than an inch and-a half, which is only half the normal amount for the week. The defect in Chutia Nagpur has also equalled about a third of the normal fall.

The rainfall during August up to the 22nd has, however, been in considerable excess of the normal in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur, about normal in South-West Bengal and South Behar, in slight to moderate defect in North Behar and East Bengal, and in rather considerable defect in North Bengal.

During the week under review the following districts have received falls largely in defect of the normal:—Balasore, Midnapore, 24-Pergunnahs, Moorshedabad, Nuddea, Jessore, Khulna, Chittagong, Noakholly, Chittagong Hill Tracts, Furreedpore, Maldah, and Sarun.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Saturday, the 22nd of August 1891:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.
